CAMPAIGN TO END SEWAGE PROBLEM PLAN OF CLUB

Kiwanians Vote to Start on Big Project In Hope of Presenting Solution

The Glendale Kiwanis club intends to put on a campaign at once to solve the local sewage problem.

Much enthusiasm on this subject was manifested yesterday noon at the Broadway Inn, 637 East Broadway, at this club's weekly luncheon.

An inquiry on the part of Lyman B. Clark as to whether the organization felt capable of handling such a big project met with hearty approval. The proposition was unanimously endorsed.

"It is time that the Kiwanis club took up the sewage question!" exclaimed Mr. Clark. "If we take it up we are going to put it over."

Councilman Davis was a guest of the occasion. He commented upon the necessity of action upon this subject. He expressed complete confidence in the club's ability to cope with this dilemma.

Constructive Work

General optimism was expressed by Secretary Don H. Webb. He reported that the board of directors had given careful consideration to the subject and had come to the conclusion that the organization was in a position to do some real constructive work along this line.

A publicity campaign to reach every home in Glendale and acquaint every voter with the issues involved was agreed upon. Announcement was made that about $125 would be donated from the club treasury to the fund for this purpose.

It was explained that it would be necessary to raise the balance of the fund by voluntary subscriptions. As an evidence of his sincere interest in this subject, Mr. Davis immediately pledged $25. His announcement was received with applause.

A suggestion that Burbank and Glendale might combine in a sewer system was made by Fred Deal, manager of the Glendale office of the Southern California Telephone company.

A committee was appointed to work out the details for the campaign. Its members are: A. L. Baird, C. B. Murphy, Dr. J. P.

LETTERS EVIDENCE HOW THIS CITY RECEIVED NAME

Glendale Is Final Choice In Spite of Objections From Authorities

It was 'long about 1885 or '86, when the "old timers" who are enjoying a reunion today at the J. C. Sherer home at 717 South Verdugo road, were "tenderfeet" that they decided that the part of the great state of California where they resided should have a name.

The first settlement in this section had been called San Rafael, while over to the west near the river there was a small community called Riverdale. The latter name was highly in favor among the residents of this part of the country and at a mass meeting it was unanimously selected as the desired name and a communication to that effect forwarded to Washington for approval.

But the answer from Washington was to the contrary, the reason given that there was already a Riverdale in the north and a Riverside in the south and naming this community Riverdale would result in mail confusion.

Consider Three Names

Another mass meeting was held and three names considered, Glendale, suggested by a woman artist from Chicago who came to California and painted the valley from the nearby hills; Hillsdale, and Etheldeane, suggested by Col. S. A. Moore and his wife, early residents.

A vote was taken and resulted in a tie between Glendale and Etheldeane and the chairman of the meeting cast the deciding vote for Etheldeane and that name was sent to Washington for approval.

But before a reply was on its way another mass meeting was held and a re-decision made favoring the name of Glendale and that name was sent on to Washington for approval.

The reply from Washington was a refusal based on the fact that there was a Glendale in Colorado and the communication stated that the name to be inscribed over the local postoffice was Mason postoffice, Los Angeles county.

But the people were staunch in their favor of Glendale and although the decreed name was put

SOME RAILROADS TO REMAIN OUT OF PEACE FOLD

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Although several rail systems have already signed separate agreements with the railroad shop unions, it was apparent today that a number of the "die hards" roads would remain outside the peace fold. 100,000 EMPLOYES IN FORD PLANTS OUT OF WORK

DETROIT, Sept. 16.—One hundred thousand men in Detroit and vicinity will be out of work today and many factories throughout the country, making Ford parts, will be forced to shut down following the closing of Henry Ford's plants here, announced for Monday. No word has been given out by either Henry or Edsel Ford. The last statement from the elder Ford was the threat a few weeks ago to close if the coal and steel interests continued their policy of "gouging."

JACKSON, Sept. 16.—Sunday morning is likely to see the breaking through of the rock boundary from the Kennedy's 3600 level into the Argonaut's 4200 at the rate the rescue crews are tearing into the connecting wall of rock today. GREEK AND ARMENIAN CHRISTIANS SLAUGHTERED

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Cablegrams received today say that wholesale slaughter of Greek and Armenian Christians by Turkish soldiers has given the near east conflict the aspect of a holy war by Mohammedans against Christianity. The exact number of victims is not known but it is feared they run into thousands. The British Mediterranean fleet is being concentrated in the Dardanelles to prevent the Turks from invading Europe to make good their claim to Thrace by force of arms. Jugo-Slavia is massing troops along her frontiers as a measure of protection in the event of a Balkan war. Bulgaria is taking no military measures, having proclaimed her neutrality. An unconfirmed report was received in London from Riga that soviet Russia is prepared to help the Turks take Constantinople from the allies and that two divisions of Russian red troops are on the Turkish border in the Caucasus. The Greek warship Kilkos—a former American man-o'-war—is reported to have bombarded the Turkish quarter of Smyrna but this report must be accepted with reserve.

John W. Lawson Secures Permit to Erect Four-Story Store and Office Building at Brand and Wilson to Cost $186,000; Construction Work Starts Within Two Weeks

THIS BUILDING SETS RECORD FOR PERMIT COST IN CITY OF GLENDALE

Mr. Lawson, accompanied by Alfred F. Priest, architect who prepared the plans, went to the city hall this morning and took out a permit for a four-story and basement store and office building on the southwest corner of Brand and Wilson to cost $186,000. This picture is Architect Priest's conception of the structure when completed.

John W. Lawson of 225 North Brand boulevard, resident and property holder of this city for many years, today gave further concrete evidence of his implicit faith in Glendale by going to the city hall and taking out a permit to build a most complete office and store building comprising four stories and basement, 50x140 feet, at the southwest corner of Brand boulevard and Wilson avenue.

The approximate cost of construction is to be $186,000, making the entire investment including the lot about $250,000, according to Mr. Lawson. Alfred F. Priest of 1422 North Central avenue, Glendale, is the architect in charge.

The permit is declared to be the largest ever issued in Glendale for a business structure. Glendale now has only $609,155 to go to equal last year's entire record. The total for the year so far is $4,490,046 while the total for last year was $5,099,201. The value of permits granted during the first half of this month amounts to $382,545.

As planned, the Lawson building will cover the entire lot at Wilson and Brand with the exception of ten feet on the rear, which will be paved for entrance to the freight elevator, which is to be one of the many modern features incorporated in this new structure. The entire exterior finish, including cornice, is to be of architectural terra cotta. The interior of the building is to be finished in mahogany.

There will be plate glass show windows for the ground floor. The second, third and fourth floors will contain sixty-five outside office rooms. Corridors are to have tile floors and marble wainscot and the elevator lobby and main stairs to the second floor are also to be of marble.

Passenger elevators will connect all floors and the basement. It is the intention of the owner to have these offices as complete and convenient as those of any group of the highest class in Los Angeles. The building is also to have a complete central steam heating plant.

The first floor, mezzanine floor and basement have been leased by period of fifteen years. The sec- the H. S. Kress company for a ond, third and fourth floors, of sixty-five offices, will be operated by the owner.

It is understood that 250 tons of steel will be required to construct the frame for this large structure, which will give an idea of the large amount of materials to be used and also the size of the building.

Mr. Lawson, owner, is to handle the construction work, contracts having been let to the Tropico Potteries Co. for all terra cotta, H. E. Betz for all brick work and setting terra cotta, H. P. Siberell for concrete and excavation work, the Brombacher iron works for structural steel frame, Wilson-Bell for hardware and Elmer Elliott for the balance of the general work. Excavating and concrete work is to be started in about ten days.

When completed this up-to-date office building will be a splendid asset to the community and especially the business district. Mr. Lawson, having resided in Glendale many years, is well acquainted with business conditions here. He is very enthusiastic over the possibilities and demands for the class of building he is to erect.

Mr. Lawson recently completed the Castle apartments, store and apartment building at 225 North Brand boulevard.

GLENDALE AVENUE SCHOOL BUILDING OPENS MONDAY

New Intermediate Has All Modern Improvements to Further Education

The Glendale avenue Intermediate school, which will open its doors Monday, is declared by many to be one of the finest school houses of its size in southern California.

Large, well lighted and well ventilated, attractive class rooms, are expected to be an incentive to education.

The new building more than meets the approval of the city board of trustees. It was planned by Architect Alfred F. Priest of 1422 North Central avenue. Its construction has been under the supervision of the Rommel Construction company of 131 South Brand boulevard. All interested have striven hard to make it a credit to Glendale.

The capacity of the school is about 400 pupils. Eight class rooms are housed in the building. These will accommodate 42 pupils each. Among them are spacious rooms for manual training, domestic science, and sewing.

The exterior of the building is rough buff brick. This is relieved by the exterior cream color woodwork.

Entrance to Building

The front of the building, which faces on Glendale avenue, is 149 feet long. The rear of the building, which is only one story in height, has a length of 190 feet.

The main entrance bisects the front of the building on Glendale avenue and is approached by a short but wide sidewalk in the midst of which is embedded an ornamental iron flag pole.

From this entrance a hall about fourteen and a half feet wide runs up a flight of wide stairs to the general floor level which is about four feet above the level of the ground. This hall, which is about seventeen and a half feet long, opens into the main corridor of the building.

This corridor, which is slightly over twelve feet in width, runs the whole length of the first floor. Like the rest of the building it is floored with maple. Its plaster walls are tinted a light green. Interior woodwork has been painted an olive gray. The ceiling is white plaster to assist in the reflection of light. All classroom

MRS. MARY RYAN HOME FROM TRIP

Principal Broadway School Spends Five Months In Tour Through East

After a five months' absence from Glendale, Mrs. Mary Ogden Ryan of 316 North Maryland avenue returned from the east yesterday morning and will take up her duties as principal of the Broadway street school. The last month of her vacation Mrs. Ryan was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. C. E. Hyde. Prior to that time she spent two months touring the east.

During her trip east, Mrs. Ryan stopped at the Grand Canyon, New Orleans, Chattanooga, Washington, New York, Boston and all the principal cities of the Atlantic coast. While at Washington she visited Congress while in session. At Boston she met Miss C. Noble and Miss F. Jackson of Glendale, who were attending the National Educational Association convention.

A trip up the Hudson, St. Lawrence river, and a visit to the Thousand Islands, Montreal, Canada, and also a two weeks' stop in Minneapolis on the return trip were among the interesting features of the eastern tour.

Mrs. Ryan was fortunate in returning to San Francisco on the last Western Pacific train to run before the strike was called.

ELKS TO GATHER IN ANNUAL PICNIC

Local Lodge Has Unusually Good Program for Outing Sunday at Verdugo

The annual Elks picnic will begin at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the city park in Verdugo Canyon and will continue until "bedtime." The members of Glendale lodge, No. 1289, B. P. O. E., and their wives, mothers, sisters or sweethearts are to have "the big time of the year." A basket picnic will be the main feature at noon.

At 1:30 o'clock little Miss Mary Margaret Salmacia, 2 years old, will lead the children's parade. Mothers are urged not to decorate their children for this event as special decorations will be supplied by the Elks. The children's races begin at 2 o'clock but entries close at 1:30 o'clock. Entries for adult races close at 2:30 o'clock. There are twenty-one contests and more than sixty prizes for fat men, lean men, bachelors, married couples, single women and most everybody. At 5:30 o'clock the prize dances will be held. Prizes totaling nearly $200 in value will be awarded for old-style and new-style dances.

Automobiles will not be allowed within the grounds, but ample parking space has been provided "around the edges." Printed programs containing all information will be given those attending. Cut out the big "ad" in this issue of The Evening News, which also gives complete information.

E. P. Wurtz of 510 Vine street has been appointed to the Glendale police department.

W. G. Lauderdale and Family Return Home

Making a record of five days motoring from Tacoma, Washington, to Glendale, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Lauderdale and two sons and Mr. Lauderdale's brother, C. F. Lauderdale of Tacoma, arrived last night at the Lauderdale home at 230 South Louise street.

Mr. and Mrs. Lauderdale and two sons left Glendale the first week in August motoring north by the coast route to Ellensburg, Wash., where they formerly made their home and where Mr. Lauderdale still has property interests. They made the trip of 1500 miles in six and a half days.

On the way home they went around by the sound to Tacoma, which took a day's time. At Tacoma they picked up Mr. Lauderdale's brother and came on south, leaving Tacoma Sunday morning and reaching Glendale last night. They report warm weather, but fine road conditions except for a detour in the southern part of Oregon and northern part of California.

MRS. O. R. BARNETT HURT

Mrs. O. R. Barnett of 334 West Broadway was taken to the Glendale Research Hospital last night with a fractured right leg. She had been attending the meeting of the West Broadway Improvement Association in the garage of the Sunset Motor Works at Pacific and Broadway. Together with several other women, she was sitting upon a plank stretched across two boxes. One of these boxes gave way and the end of the plank fell to the cement floor across Mrs. Barnett's leg.

CONSIDERATE THIEF

George F. Newman of 237 North Cedar street took home a new $160 washing machine last night and stored it in the yard under a new $6 blanket. He awoke this morning to find the blanket gone, but the machine still there.

C. H. TOLL FAMILY COMPLETES TRIP

Ten Thousand-Mile Journey, Part by Auto, Takes Up Seven Weeks' Time

After a 10,000 mile trip, 3,500 miles of which were made by motoring, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Toll and sons, Maynard and Carroll, arrived at their home, 1635 Kenneth road, yesterday afternoon.

The Tolls left Glendale seven weeks ago, traveling by train to Detroit, Michigan, where they took an automobile that had been especially built for them. At Detroit they met their eldest son, Charles H. Toll, Jr., a senior at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who came from Boston to meet his parents and two brothers.

From Detroit the Toll party motored along the southern shore of Lake Erie, through New York state, up into Canada as far as Quebec, then down through Maine, the New England state, and on for interesting visits in New York city, Washington, D. C. and Philadelphia.

Ship Car by Boat

At Baltimore they shipped their car by boat to California and took the train for the trip home. En route west they stopped for visits in Minnesota and Illinois.

The Toll's fourth son, Gerald, was unable to make the trip because he is a junior at the University of California, and had to be in Berkeley for the opening of fall activities.

REPORTS BICYCLE STOLEN

Roy Altman of 405 West Doran street reports the theft of a bicycle from Glendale Union High school.

Casa Verdugo Objects To Annexation Plan

Casa Verdugo has no intention of annexing to Glendale, according to the sentiment expressed last night in the Central avenue school by the members of the Casa Verdugo Welfare association.

James F. Rhoades, secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, opened the meeting, but did not remain until its conclusion. He called attention to the fact that annexation probably would bring reductions in light and water rates and other advantages.

General dissatisfaction over the school situation was expressed by Mrs. George Larkey of 1305 North Central avenue. She commented on the fact that a bond issue for the erection of the Central avenue school had to be put to a vote twice on account of the negative vote in the rest of the school district. She expressed displeasure at the inadequate accommodations at present provided by the school district, for the children

Dr. R. L. Young of 1907 North Brand boulevard succeeded Mr. Rhoades as chairman of the evening. A number of those present made short speeches of protest against annexation.

During the meeting the benefits of the proposed electrification of Glendale avenue to Montrose and La Crescenta were enumerated. P. J. Hayselden addressed the meeting on the history of the Montrose & Glendale railroad and W. L. Twining spoke on the advantages of the proposed line. Lon J. Haddock of Santa Monica was also one of the speakers.

Bullis home at 1325 South Central avenue. Mrs. A. W. Wilson, vice president, was appointed to the presidency. Mrs. E. Strong was appointed vice president to succeed Mrs. Wilson.

The meeting decided to hold the informal opening of the new school Friday night, September 29, at 8 o'clock.

REGIONAL MEET IS BEING HELD AT VERDUGO PARK

City and County Officials at Conference; Picnic Outing One of Features

This noon the Regional Planning conference was in full swing at Glendale Verdugo park. A large number of people other than those directly connected with the meeting were present and demonstrated an intense interest in the scientific co-ordinated and co-operative planning of civic development in the communities of Los Angeles county.

Glendale is the hostess of the day, entertaining its guests at "The Oaks" in Verdugo canyon. A Spanish luncheon was served at noon at the old Verdugo homestead.

This morning's session was presided over by Mayor Spencer Robinson of Glendale. Supervisor H. W. Wright held the chair during the noon meeting and Councilman R. M. Allan of Los Angeles was scheduled to pilot the afternoon session.

Picnic Under Trees

People from points in San Fernando valley attended the affair. Entire families took advantage of the occasion to see the new city park and picnic under the trees.

Frederick Law Olmsted, noted park executive, was the principal speaker. It was fitting that such an address as that given by Mr. Olmsted should be in the open and upon public park grounds. The speaker has had years of contact with parks and their development, in Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, and other cities.

G. Gordon Whitnall is the principal speaker scheduled for the afternoon program, details of which will be published in Monday's issue of The Glendale Evening News.

City and county officials and chamber of commerce representatives compose the membership of the conference.

See End of Strike for Southern Road

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Settlement of the rail strike on the Southern railroad is expected to follow a conference begun today between representatives of six federated shop crafts and Henry W. Miller, vice president of the Southern. The so-called "Willard- Jewell plan" adopted in Chicago authorizing individual railroads to negotiate directly with their men, will be the basis of the negotiations between Miller and the shop craftsmen.

GARDEN PARTY AID TO CLUB'S FUND FOR BUILDING

Entire Entertainment Takes Place Out of Doors on La Ramada Grounds

The grounds of La Ramada, which is now occupied by H. C. Swartz, secretary of the Sculptors guild, and wife, provided a very beautiful setting for a garden party which was given last night by Mrs. A. A. Barton, Mrs. Frank C. Ayars and Mrs. Harry N. McMullin to 125 guests for the benefit of the building fund of the Tuesday Afternoon club.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Swartz an interesting and whimsical, satire comedy, "The Wonder Hat," was presented. This playette was first produced about six years ago at the Players' Workshop in Chicago, of which Mrs. Swartz had charge at that time, and was directed by Clarence Thomas, whose wife had the original role of Margot. Mr. Thomas directed last night's performance, with his wife again in the role of Margot. Others taking part included Michael Dark as Harlequin, Lavinne Philip as Pierrot, Mrs. Lee Childers of Glendale as Columbine and H. C. Swartz as Punchinello.

The entire evening's entertainment was staged out-of-doors under the pepper trees. In addition to the playette there were two Spanish dance numbers by Miss Edith Lindsay and vocal selections by George Kronmiller, accompanied by Miss Gertrude Champlain.

Give Assistance

Soft green and white electric lights had been loaned for the occasion by the Newton Electric company, the wiring having been done through the courtesy of Sierra club products, who furnished the punch, and Dr. Henry Harrower, who loaned the use of the chairs.

Another activity yesterday for the benefit of the building fund of the Tuesday Afternoon club was the bridge party given in the afternoon by Mrs. George B. Pratt of 356 West Myrtle street. First prize for high score was awarded to Mrs. George T. Smith and consolation prize to Mrs. J. Kjergard.

The guests included Mrs. Arthur Dibbern, Mrs. George T. Smith, Mrs. George Herring, Mrs. James Apffel, Mrs. O. Andersen, Mrs. J. Kjergard, Mrs. Kleider, Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. Warren Roberts, Mrs. H. V. Smith, Mrs. Chester Kling, Mrs. Heloise Bondaux, Mrs. E. Halstead and Mrs. William Willis. Decorations of zinnias and asters were used throughout the house. At the close of the afternoon refreshments were served.

WINS SUCCESS IN REALTY CIRCLES

Elsa-Jane Office Well Known In City; Young Woman at Head of Business

The name Elsa-Jane stands in Glendale business circles for a successful business woman, Elsa McClelland, owner and executive of the quaint little real estate office at 1701 South Brand boulevard.

When the little office opened its doors not quite a year ago it was under the name Elsa-Jane Realty company, the Elsa-Jane being the first name of the two owners. Finally the young woman claiming the name Jane withdrew, leaving the entire business to her partner.

The result is that while Elsa McClelland is the sole owner, the office still bears the Elsa-Jane name and when old or new friends call the office and hear a sweet feminine voice answer they invariably say, "Is this Elsa-Jane?"

"I am in love with the realty game, particularly in Glendale," says Elsa-Jane. "I was in business in Los Angeles before coming to Glendale so that business life was not entirely new to me. Since opening my office not quite a year ago I have enjoyed real success and find it necessary to keep a salesman in the office to help me handle all the business.

"I'm a strong booster for Glendale, both as a home city and a business center and I have been successful in influencing several newcomers to buy both home and business property here."

Recent Elsa-Jane sales are listed as 100 feet and eleven-room house at 1269 South San Fernando Road, owned by Miss A. M. Archard, sold to Arthur C. Craven for $11,000. Mr. Craven is recently from Oklahoma and plans to use the property for a hotel site.

Five lots and house on Central avenue, owned by Campbell and Whitaker, sold to Arthur Craven for $10,000.

House on Cerritos avenue sold to Mrs. Sigrid Olson for $5000.

House on Park avenue sold to Arthur Craven for $2000.

EASTERN STAR IN SOCIAL MEETING

Number of Visitors Present at Gathering; Program Proves Success

The members of Glen Eyrie chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, were hostesses last night to the Matrons' and Patrons' Association of 1922 from Los Angeles and vicinity. Among the visitors were Mrs. Maude Sibley, grand conductress of the state of California; Mrs. Beulah Morrisey, district deputy grand matron of the state of California, and John Alcorn, past grand treasurer of the state of Colorado.

The members of the Matrons' and Patrons' Association, of which more than thirty were present, were escorted to the east and presented with favors of candleholders and leather key holders by the worthy matron, Mrs. Fannie Mae Parke, and the worthy patron, Harry Leroy Redd, of the Glendale chapter, who introduced the guests.

An interesting program had been arranged by the committee in charge, which included Mrs. Mary Pollock, chairman, Mrs. Martha Dibbern, Mrs. B. O. Holbrook, Mrs. H. A. McPherson and Mrs. James Wyvell. The program consisted of a cornet duet by L. E. Wilbur and C. K. Aston, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Wilbur, and a "fairy dance" by Miss Lois Naudain. Later in the evening a four-piece orchestra furnished music for dancing, and cards were also enjoyed.

Martin of Van Nuys; Alice T. Dirks, H. L. Bailey of Eagle Rock; George R. Thedaker, Frances Reese, Eva M. Thedaker and A. W. Reese of Burbank; Laura Hess, J. R. Santa Barbara Man Making Trip Through Various Parts of State

"Glendale was one of the main stops I had picked out for my tour of the state," said Grant C. Bourquin, member of the Santa Barbara Wheelmen, who visited Glendale yesterday while on a bicycle trip through a large part of California.

Leaving Santa Barbara Tuesday morning, Mr. Bourquin states that he rode to Los Angeles, then to San Bernardino and return. After making a tour of most of the beaches in Los Angeles county, he came to Glendale.

His projected trip will include Bakersfield, Fresno, Sacramento, San Francisco, then down the coast to Santa Cruz and Santa Barbara. Two or three weeks will be required for the trip, he estimates.

PICTURE PROOF POSITIVE GLENDALE MEN SHOOT STRAIGHT; KIWANIS MEMBERS READY TO TESTIFY

HERE'S MOST REMARKABLE PICTURE OF SPORT LIFE

Left to right: Dr. T. C. Young, prominent surgeon, and his brother-in-law, A. L. Baird, manager of the real estate and insurance department of the R. L. Kent company of Glendale, and Rube Gould, Digger Indian guide, standing among the six bucks they shot on the east slope of Mount Lassen in Shasta county from September 6 to 9. It will be noted that three of the bucks suspended to the pole have five points while the fourth has four. Hides of the other two are on the trees.

The Kiwanis club yesterday dined on venison at the Broadway Inn. Here is the pictured proof that it wasn't mountain goat.

Tonight the Kill Kare Dancing club will dine at the same place on more of the venison.

Next Wednesday evening the Glendale Clinical and Pathological society will feast also on the deer steak.

Dr. T. C. Young and A. L. Baird of this city, pictured herewith, are responsible for these and other venison dinners among their friends as a result of their visit to Shasta county where Rube Gould, a Digger Indian guide, who is known by many here, took them on a hunting tour.

Incidentally, the picture is one of the most remarkable ever obtained by hunters. It was snapped with a kodak and enlarged. The four deer bagged by Messrs. Baird and Young averaged 400 pounds in weight.

The Glendale party's vacation trip this year also included a motor trip to Crater Lake, Ore., and some wonderful views were obtained.

Among the interesting experiences told by Dr. Young was the ability of Gould, the guide, to shame a coyote to silence. The animal insisted on yelping during the night and at the request of the doctor, the Indian started a counter barrage of coyote calls. Soon it shut up and a peaceful night's rest was obtained.

Hunting deer entails much more than an ability to shoot, according to Dr. Young. In stalking the quarry it is necessary to outwit the wily animal which will take any chance to avoid being shot. It must be approached with the wind, on fast horses and when within gun shot the rider must leap to the ground and fire from an almost prone position.

POST DELEGATES PRESENT REPORTS

Glendale Legion Gets Honors at Convention; Loan Act Gets Endorsement

Reports from the three delegates from the Glendale Post, American Legion, who attended the recent 1922 California State American Legion convention in San Jose were the feature of last night's meeting of the local Legionnaires.

Commander James F. McBryde, Robert Rowley and Dr. H. C. Smith, the three delegates, gave separate reports on the convention, bringing out all the interesting phases of the affair, which lasted from September 5 to 8, inclusive.

The first business of the meeting was the reading of a telegram from Senator Hiram W. Johnson to Commander McBryde of the Glendale Post. The message, which read, "Senate just passed conference report on bonus bill thirty-six to seventeen," was heartily received by the Legionnaires.

Following discussion of the message and the bonus bill, the meeting was turned over entirely to the reports of Commander McBryde, Mr. Rowley and Dr. Smith on the state convention of the Legion.

Place of Honor

A few of the "high spots" reported by the delegates were as follows:

The ninth "congressional" district, of which the Glendale Post is a member, was given the place of honor in the auditorium as a result of having reported the largest gain in membership during the past year. Glendale Post was presented with a merit certificate for increase in membership.

Glendale Post was honored when two of its members were placed on state committees for the coming year, Commander McBryde on the credentials and welcoming committee, and Robert Rowley on the committee on Americanization.

The location for the convalescent hospital for disabled veterans, which was heretofore undecided, was announced as either in San Fernando or San Gabriel valley. The first unit of the hospital is to be started within the next few months.

Harmony Prevails

This year's convention was the most harmonious ever held in California, there being no manifestations of factional or sectional differences over any of the questions arising, it was declared.

A campaign fund of $12,500 was raised for the purpose of putting propositions No. 1 and 3, which are the ex-service men's "farm and home loan acts," in the statutes of the state at the November election, the ninth district being the second largest donator, subscribing $2000.

All of the delegates spoke on the loan act, which every ex-service man and his friends should work and vote for at the polls on November 7.

The act was also referred to as the "ten million dollar bond issue," although it was explained that it is not to be similar to other bond issues and that not a cent in taxes would be raised if the propositions are passed. An active campaign was organized at last night's meeting for the purpose of informing Glendalians of the true purport of the issue.

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

For Mutual Benefit
Auto Good Investment
Spend Money Where Made
School Bell on Monday

By Gil A. Cowan

GLENDALE today is host to the Regional Planning Conference at a Spanish dinner served by the F. P. Newport company in Verdugo Woodlands.

The importance of this meeting cannot be too greatly exaggerated, as it represents the unification of Los Angeles county communities' mutual interests.

The conference, which has held several successful sessions, is the incubator for the major improvements to be made in this rapidly populating county, and in its program may be found something of vital interest to almost every property owner or resident.

Flood control, sewage disposal, boulevards and general planning for the future needs of the citizenry are most important subjects taken up, while many intercity matters are threshed out to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Glendale is vitally affected by all these things and to have the conference members come in and be royally entertained in one of the most beautiful woodland dells in the country means much.

It was interesting to read in the columns of The Glendale Evening News recently the account of the first automobile race in England in which a resident of this city took a part as pilot of one of the steam-propelled horseless carriages.

That race in 1891 marked the beginning of a new era, for it established the practicability of motor transportation on the public highway.

Since then the cars have been developed to the nth degree and highways have become motor routes where horse-drawn vehicles are shunted aside.

Automobiles have sped the world's progression a thousand-fold, and where it formerly took days to travel between towns, it is now but a matter of an hour or so.

Surprising, too, is the economy of motor transportation in the world today. A standard machine will operate for about two cents per mile. The cost of traveling is as cheap as staying at home—almost.

The liberal education provided by a week-end jaunt to some neighboring county is well worth the price.

An automobile is a good investment for business or pleasure.

In yesterday's Comment you noted something about the geography of California.

Well, it doesn't even begin to compare with Arizona or Nevada for large counties and desolate desert ranges and places to completely lose oneself in figuring out what God intended man to do with it.

As many people live in Glendale vicinity—Eagle Rock, Burbank, Glendale and environs—as there are in the whole state of Nevada.

And yet, many trading centers, yes, cities, are supported by the scattered population. Great wealth exists in these far out-of-the-way-places, and much of it is spent where it is made.

If every resident here would spend a similar per capita amount with local stores this would soon become the second or third largest city in Southern California.

Think it over, folks.

What would that mean to the value of property, the desirability of residence here, the opportunities for employment, etc.?

Grammar school opens Monday, as you note in the News columns.

It will be a great day for hundreds of little folks.

When the rusty school bell rings out a welcome call, the thinking man or woman will stop for a second and give thanks for living in this land of liberty, enlightenment and education.

The schools, to which the future is entrusted, have a wonderful mission to fulfill.

However, the secular schooling is not enough. Religious education should keep apace—not to make boys and girls ministers and missionaries necessarily, but to make them better men and women.

BOOSTS CITY TO THOSE HE MEETS

J. Korn Says It's Pleasure to Do Business Here; Formerly In L. A.

"It's a pleasure to be in business in Glendale."

That is what J. Korn, 221 South Brand boulevard, has to say for this city after being in business here for five months.

Mr. Korn does tailoring, cleaning and pressing, and that he is successful in his business here can be determined by a visit to his shop. He is always busy, but never too busy to greet an old friend or make a new one.

Although here but a short time he has made many friends, and is known by many Glendale folk because of the fact that he was in the same business in Los Angeles for many years.

"I like Los Angeles," he said today, "but I like Glendale better because it is not so big and still has all of the advantages of a much bigger city."

H. M. KUEHN, GOES EAST

Henry M. Kuehn is leaving tomorrow by train for Detroit, Mich. After visiting automobile factories and other points of interest in this city, he will go to Grand Rapids where he owns a Williard Battery station. He will motor back in a new automobile purchased by his father-in-law, Orin Stair, who will accompany him.

Mr. Kuehn is a member of the firm of the E. W. Cizek Auto Electric company, 300 South Brand boulevard.

CLASS GIVES BENEFIT

Young women of the Phi Delta class of the First Methodist church cleared approximately $50 last night on the benefit entertainment they gave in the church social hall for the piano fund. A dramatic sketch, "Aunt Deborah's First Luncheon," was the feature of the program. The class teacher, Mrs. F. M. Edwards, coached the skit. In addition to the playlet there were a number of readings and also a group of violin numbers by Miss Bertha Brown.

More talc and soapstone are produced by the United States than any other country, but our consumption is far beyond our production.

FRANCE PUSHING ITS REBUILDING

War Stricken Regions Put Back Into Habitable Condition Again

PARIS—The work of reconstructing France's devastated regions is going ahead actively. Already in many parts of the former battlefront large areas of land have been given back to farmers for cultivation. Products from these regions have reached Paris for sale at the central market.

Before being allowed to cultivate the soil, however, farmers have had to wait until military authorities have carefully examined the ground and assured themselves that it no longer presents any danger from buried shells or grenades.

The district around Arras, known as the "Red Zone," it was found was one of buried shells and munitions. Work on this region began a few days after the armistice, and today it is not yet finished. Great have been the dangers of clearing the land.

Men Are Killed

Sixty-eight men have been killed in this region alone by accidentally dropping shells or hitting munitions of all kinds while working. The total quantity of ammunition removed from the "Red Zone" is close upon 90,000 tons. Whole ammunition dumps, both German and Allied, have had to be removed elsewhere and exploded. The remains of villages and towns have had to be gathered up and sifted, roads have had to be completely dug before being repaired. Tree stumps have been removed by the thousands. Two hundred thousand shells alone have been discovered.

The work is drawing to a close now, and it is hoped to begin reconstruction work proper on many of the villages this year.

BELFAST, Sept. 16. — Nine persons were wounded here by a bomb explosion early today. South Ireland has been cut off from the north by destruction of railways and bridges.

Servia Is Massing Troops, Is Report

BELGRADE, Sept. 16.—Servia (Jugo-Slavia) is massing troops along the frontiers to protect them in the event hostilities break out in the Balkans. The report that the government was mobilizing was denied.

The Greek ministers to Rumania and Jugo-Slavia have been ordered to Athens for a conference.

DEVELOPMENT ON LARGE PROPERTY

Reservations Are Now Being Made In Sparr Heights; Many Fine Tracts

Formal announcement is made today that reservations in the beautiful Sparr Heights foothill homesites may be obtained from the Francis-Barnum-Walters Co., who have established a main office on Verdugo Road at Montrose.

Sparr Heights is a vast domain within the city of Glendale principally. It comprises 1500 acres of the choicest residential, club and foothill estate tracts to be found within similar proximity to Los Angeles, it is said.

Lying in the green Verdugo valley the Sparr holdings extend around and over the rugged slopes of Mt. Verdugo, right to the Brand castle property in northwest Glendale.

Development Work

It is estimated that $2,000,000 will be spent in the development work before the final drives of the great selling campaign will be made.

By investing now, it is pointed out, the various property owners will reap the benefit of these improvements.

The announcement of Sparr Heights will turn all eyes of southern California toward the Glendale foothills, for this is but the "first shot" in a great campaign to add upwards 40,000 population to this community.

Mrs. Mildred Barnes Writes of Vacation

Friends of Mrs. Mildred C. Barnes, formerly of North Brand boulevard, have received word from her stating that she expects to return to Glendale about the first of November from Minocqua, Wisconsin, where she has been spending a vacation. She states that the weather there has been delightful, with plenty of rain, making the country beautiful and the crops bountiful. She is finding that section particularly attractive at this season on account of the boating and fishing. Mrs. Barnes is another booster for The Evening News. She says:

"I am enjoying The Glendale Evening News, which I am receiving regularly, and my visit here would not be complete without it."

New Orleans Fires Cause of Big Loss

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 16.—Loss of $6,000,000 was caused early today by one of the most spectacular fires in the history of New Orleans when the 7000-foot government wharf and a two-story shed in front of the United States army supply base on the river front was destroyed.

Early reports were that six men had lost their lives from burning and drowning, but later this morning it was indicated that there had been no loss of life.

CHANGE OF BANK'S NAME EFFECTIVE IN BIG MERGER

L. A. Trust & Savings Now to Become Pacific South-West Trust & Savings

The following article is authorized by the Los Angeles Trust & Savings bang:

Effective at the close of business Saturday, September 16, the name of Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank will be changed to the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank in order to provide a title more descriptive of the institution, following the merger on July 1st of twenty banks in twenty-four cities in that portion of the Pacific-Southwest located in California, with the Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank.

This action is evidence of the policy of the bank to serve impartially all portions of that territory in which the bank is located, and to use its huge resources for the benefit of the Pacific-Southwest, without discrimination for or against any community located in the territory in which the bank is operating.

"Pacific-Southwest" is descriptive of that economic area lying between Fresno and the Mexican line in California, the Imperial Valley in Mexico, the states of Arizona and New Mexico, and the southern portion of Nevada and Utah.

Its natural boundaries are those points where the economic rail haul lies to the port of Los Angeles as against San Francisco to the north.

Agriculture and industries are coming more nearly into balance. Its business centers in Los Angeles and the Los Angeles harbor district—this because railroads and highways have been so constructed that the natural flow of commerce throughout this territory lies to this port.

Unified Sysem

The urge of these developments resulted in the necessity for the creation of a unified financial system working for the most orderly and rapid development of the entire district.

As a result, on July 1st there was a merger of banks in twenty-four cities from Fresno south, having total resources of approximately $200,000,000, under the name of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank pending legal formalities in the adoption of a more descriptive name for the new organization. The banks which were involved in this merger, which will hereafter operate under the name of the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings bank, include:

Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank and branches.

Union National bank, Pasadena.

Union Trust & Savings bank, Pasadena.

City National bank, Long Beach.

Fidelity Trust & Savings bank, Fresno.

American Marine National bank, San Pedro.

Bank of Glendale.

Hollywood Savings bank.

Commercial Trust & Savings bank, Santa Barbara, with branches at Lompoc and Carpinteria.

Bank of Santa Maria, with branches at Guadalupe, Los Alamos and Orcutt.

Alhambra Savings and Commercial bank.

The First National bank of Redlands.

Savings Bank of Redlands.

The Farmers and Merchants National bank, Hanford.

Hanford Savings bank.

First National Bank of Visalia.

Producers' Savings Bank, Visalia.

National Bank of Tulare.

Savings Bank of Tulare.

Lindsay National bank.

First National bank, Oxnard.

Oxnard Savings bank.

These banks, with The First National Bank of Los Angeles, of which the First National Bank of Hollywood has become a part, constitute a unified system, while the First Securities company exists for the underwriting in this territory of securities of the highest type.

In creating this merger no effort was made to achieve "bigness." The plan was to unify some of the best banks of the Pacific-Southwest occupying key positions in the various districts, in order that more complete financial assistance may be given the marketing of the various seasonal crops, and to provide the necessary financial machinery for the upbuilding of this territory upon balanced lines.

Two Years' Inquiry

The merger was the result of two years of careful investigation of the needs of the Pacific-Southwest. Particular attention in this investigation was given to the working out of plans whereby the credit of the community may be equitably allocated to the various agricultural and business interests.

By this merger money returned to the Pacific-Southwest in the spring from the sale of the orange crop of Southern California can be used for financing the raisin crop in the San Joaquin Valley. Money obtained in the fall from marketing of raisins is available for the early vegetable grower of the Imperial Valley. Similarly, the diversity of seasonal movements of other products results in the elasticity of bank credits, and this elasticity in turn results in additional service to the various communities.

In the area in which this merged institution carries on its activities directly, the products—agricultural, mining and manufacturing— are harvested and marketed in such seasons that it will make substantially a continuous use of credits and flatten the curve of peak demands to the minimum. This gives a more economic use and co-ordinates the funds within the area to the advantage of all concerned.

Closer Together

It was believed necessary to bring banking institutions together in such a way that the merged institutions would have the co-operative assistance of officers, directors and stockholders who have cared for needs of their respective communities and have knowledge of their requirements. The mere installation of branches or the absolute outright purchase of already existing banks, would not accomplish the fundamental purpose. It is for this reason that the present method of co-operation was worked out, a method by which none of the local control or knowledge is lost thru the entering of any particular bank into this system.

The First National Bank of Los Angeles was granted its charter in August, 1880, taking over the business of the Commercial Bank, which was established in 1875 by E. F. Spence, Hiram Mabury and J. E. Hollenbeck, who, with others continued in ownership and control of The First National Bank. The initial capital was $100,000 the reserve $50,000, and the deposits $900,000.

Some Early History

At that time Los Angeles had about 11,000 inhabitants, and by 1890 the population had increased to 50,000. The bank kept pace with this growth, and by 1901 had outgrown its quarters and moved to a new location on the corner of Second and Spring streets, and increased its capital to $500,000, with surplus and profits of $350,000, and deposits of approximately $3,000,000. By September, 1905, the deposits had increased to $7,750,000.

In 1905 The First National Bank, the Los Angeles National, and the Southwestern National Bank were consolidated under the name and charter of the First National Bank of Los Angeles. By this move the capital was increased to $1,250,000, the surplus and profits to $2,860,000, and the deposits aggregated $13,630,000.

In the same year the stock of the Los Angeles Trust company and the Metropolitan Trust company was acquired by the stockholders of The First National bank for the purpose of handling trusts, mortgage loans and estates of its customers.

In 1909 the Los Angeles Trust company changed its name to the Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank and in the fall of that year the Metropolitan Bank and Trust company was consolidated with it, under the name of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank, which now becomes the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank, and The First National Bank of Los Angeles have been operated under one ownership.

Six Full Floors

In September, 1910, when the stock of The First National Bank of Los Angeles was increased to $1,500,000, the capital of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank was raised to the same figure, and an owner of stock in The First National Bank had an equal number of shares of the stock of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank held in trust for him by the officers of the First National bank. On February 23, 1913, the quarters of the First National bank were moved to the present location at Seventh and Spring streets. In January, 1920, the capital of each of these two banks was increased to $3,000,000, and in June, 1921, to $3,500,000.

In August, 1911, the Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank moved into its new building at Sixth and Spring streets, where it now occupies six full floors, the basement and sub-basement, and has scattered offices on other floors.

The resources of the merged and affiliated institutions now approximate $200,000,000, and deposits approximate $175,000,000.

The first president of the First National Bank of Los Angeles was J. E. Hollenbeck. He retired a short time before his death and was succeeded by E. F. Spence, who presided over the bank until his death in 1892. J. M. Elliott was the next president. He entered the service of the bank in 1881, was elected cashier in 1885, and served in that capacity until he was made the president in 1892. Mr. Elliott is now chairman of the board. He was succeeded as president in 1916 by Stoddard Jess, who allied himself with the bank in 1904 as first vice president. Mr. Jess served as president until his death in February, 1920, and was succeeded by Henry M. Robinson, the present president of the First National Bank of Los Angeles and the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings bank, and the First Securities company.

Change of Name

Under the new organization, the stock of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings bank and the First Securities company, is held by the Los Angeles Trust & Safe Deposit company, and beneficial certificates have been issued to the stockholders entitling them to their pro rata share in the stock of each of these institutions.

The change of name of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank to the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings bank became necessary, because, as a result of the organization of the branch system, the name "Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank" was no longer applicable. Incidentally, this change comes just ten years after the installation of the first branch of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings bank, which was opened for business on August 31, 1912, at Pico street and Grand avenue in Los Angeles. The second branch was opened on February 24, 1913, and no further branches were added until 1917. The first branch outside of the city of Los Angeles was opened on June 16, 1919, at Avalon, Santa Catalina Island.

During the next two years the bank continued its policy of expanding its service through opening of branches in Los Angeles and the metropolitan area surrounding Los Angeles, and following this on July 1 with the organization of a branch system including the group of Pacific Southwest banks heretofore mentioned.

Each of the banks which has become a branch of the Pacific-Southwest bank has been a leading and active factor in the development of the community which it serves. Under this new organization, and with the new name, symbolic of broader service, they are continuing their local services and broadening the effectiveness of their work in their own localities.

RACING FANS TO GET REAL SPORT

L. A. Speedway Association Manager Is Gathering Entries In East

SPEEDWAY, Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 16.—Rain today forced the postponement of Kansas City's 300-mile automobile dash, scheduled for 2 o'clock this afternoon. With rain falling at 10 o'clock this morning, E. E. Peake, president of the speedway association, announced that the race would be put off until 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Characteristics of the extent to which the management of the Speedway association is going to promote real sport for the automobile racing fans, A. M. Young, secretary-manager of the association, will be in attendance at the Kansas City race today to gather entries for the coming Thanksgiving races from every available driver in the east.

Coincident with this announcement comes another to the effect that the contest board of the American Automobile association, which has full sway over everything pertaining to automobile racing, has granted the request of the local speedway management and raised the entry limit for the coming event to twenty instead of the former number of eighteen.

Day of Thrills

This is another assurance that the speed fans will be given every opportunity to have a day chockful of thrill.

This means for the scores of thousands who will be in attendance the greatest collection of speed stars that has ever been presented on the track. The recent feat of Tommy Milton of turning a lap in the unofficial time of 36 seconds flat, at the rate of 125 miles an hour, established the Beverly Hills bowl as the fastest in the country, and more than one record is expected to fall when the roaring motors power the speed creations over the wooden saucer.

Use Special Cycle

Dr. Paul Wilberforce Harrison, a medical missionary in Bahrein, Arabia, is having a special motorcycle made in this country, with broad tires and high power, so that he can penetrate the desert rapidly. He expects to make the distance from Behrein to Riadh, which is 250 miles, within twenty-four hours, instead of taking ten to fourteen days on camel-back for the trip.

Tadpoles treated with thyroxin turn into matured frogs almost at once.

BETTER TRAFFIC LAWS NEED HERE

Auto Owners of California Awakening to Necessity of Better Rules

Changes of traffic regulations for many southern and central California towns and cities are in the air.

Owners of automobiles are awakening to the necessity of better rules in cities for the parking of machines, for right and left turns in traffic and other laws, it is stated by authorities all over the southern counties.

Following the investigation of traffic situations in California, made by the engineers of the Automobile Club of Southern California, which resulted in the submission of a plan containing radical changes for the city of Los Angeles to the municipal government, a general consideration of present traffic laws by other cities is taking place.

Favor Changing Regulations

Auto club officials declare that there is a widespread sentiment throughout Southern California for the improving of traffic regulations to facilitate the moving of automobile travel as expeditiously as possible.

Each town and city, with only a few exceptions, is considering the situation within its own district to see if there are any possible improvements which will be of greater convenience, both to motorists and to pedestrians.

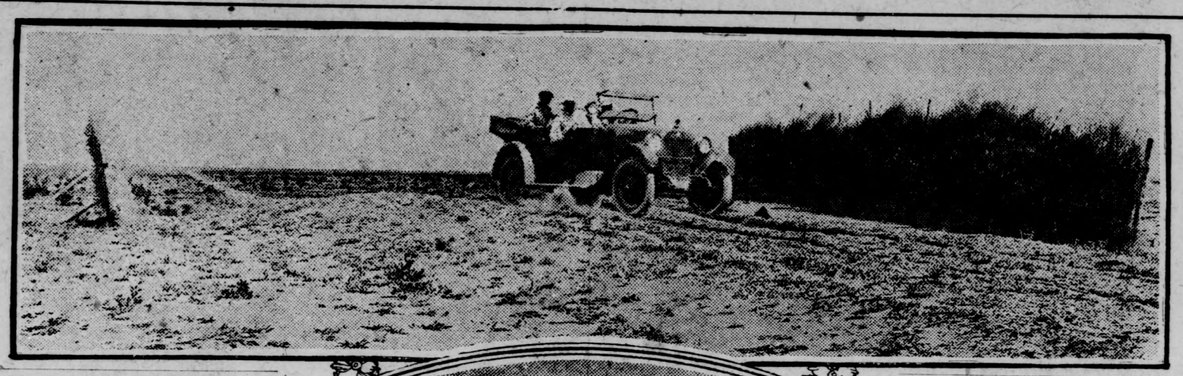
"Safety" is one of the prime factors in the stir which is motivating the city governments. There is a special desire to cut down the number of accidents which have been recorded this year throughout the state, and changes in traffic laws which will help along this line are now being considered.

Better laws will mean fewer accidents, say the authorities, and this is the object of the projected improvements.

Springs Too Stiff

Valve springs that are too stiff may close the valve with so much force that the heads may be broken from the steam. If they may en from the stems, or they may On the other hand, valve springs that are too weak to hold the valves on the cams will make the engine weak at high speeds and produce chattering, owing to a belated seating of the valves. In this connection it must be remembered that too stiff valve stems, even if they do not injure the valve seat by constant hammering are consuming power that could be better used elsewhere.

Reo Six Establishes New Mark In Thrilling Trip From Los Angeles To Phoenix and Back



Reo Six Hangs Up Enviable Mark to Its Credit

Two hours and fifty-eight minutes were clipped from the former record in a fight against time and the elements in last week's dash to Phoenix and back. Washouts and cloudbursts in the heart of the desert gave the occupants of the car plenty of thrills. The drivers are: Right, Charles H. Bigelow, and Dave Fassett, relief pilot.

Harry E. White of Harry E. White, Inc., local Reo dealer, has received word of another record piled up by the Reo.

In a run from Los Angeles to Phoenix, a total of three hours has been chopped off the former running time, it is announced. The man to set the new record was Charles H. Bigelow, who has made the trip on many previous occasions.

He first made the trip in 1908 to lay out a course for a Los Angeles to Phoenix road race that followed.

The car used this time was a stock model and stock-equipped, according to Mr. White. It was a seven-passenger touring car, the only variations from stock equipment being the addition of Hartford shock absorbers and Brown reflectors for the headlights.

Familiar with Route

The driver was familiar with the route as a result of his experiences in Phoenix road races in the years 1908-09-10-11-12. Road conditions are said to be little or no better than they were during the driver's first trip.

Summer rains and cloudbursts have cut the sides of the washes so that it is necessary to take great care to avoid serious spills. Springs, axles, disk wheels and every mechanical detail of the car stood up under the severe test without once faltering.

The only trouble experienced on the entire trip was a single puncture on the detour between Cabezon and Palm Springs.

Over Year Old

"The former record for the round trip from Los Angeles to Phoenix was thirty-seven hours and fifty-six minutes," said Mr. White. "It was made over a year ago. Until the Reo established the new time in this trip the old record time had not even been approached. The Reo's time was thirty-four hours and forty-eight minutes.

"The only time deduction was made on the entire trip was while the crew were securing a few hours of much-needed sleep."

Sandstorms, cloudbursts, heavy lightning striking within a quarter of a mile of the speeding car and many other experiences fell to the lot of the crew that piloted the Reo, according to Mr. White, but the Reo came through with a new record just the same.

Some High Spots

A few memorandums made on a report of the run follow:

"Slowed down by cattle for some distance out of Phoenix," "stopped for gasoline at Bouse," "Severe rains, road slippery near Daggett," "Four-mile detour near Beaumont," "Palm Springs, six minutes for tire change," and other similar stops along the way for water, gasoline and telegrams.

The round trip mileage totaled 957 miles the report stated.

"The Reo has built a fine reputation as a car of good service," said Mr. White, in commenting on the trip. "This trip is similar to many others in that the Reo comes through with flying colors."

Reo touring cars delivered to Glendale residents this week by Harry E. White, Inc., include the following:

G. D. McDill, 1451 East Wilson avenue, and L. J. Andrews, 1215 South Central avenue.

AUTO NECESSITY IN PRESENT DAY

Professional People Make Good Use of Them In Their Daily Work

Professional men and women are depending more and more on the automobile and experiencing daily the great benefits of owning cars, as is attested by the fact that more than 100,000 physicians in the United States use cars to extend, and to make more rapid their service in their communities.

Men and women who practice medicine, law, dentistry and other professions are indispensable to any community. They assume a leading part in the welfare of every city, town or hamlet. It is only natural that, to permit the freer development of the field, they should have easy and economical means of transportation. That means is supplied by the automobile.

People on distant farms who formerly depended on make shift remedies until the doctor could get there, now are in convenient reach of the physician. The automobile has lessened time and distance as factors in illness.

Multiples of Seven

The automobile division of the Pennsylvania state highway department recently issued license tag No. 700,000 to Governor William C. Sproul. He has five other cars, which carry license numbers 7, 77, 777, 7777 and 77,777.

DRIVERS' LEAGUE IS POPULAR NOW

Will Set Good Example by Being Courteous, Also Careful on Road

Glendale motorists are joining the Southern California Safe Drivers' league in large numbers, according to M. A. Lewis of this city's branch of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

There is no red tape to joining the league, it is announced. The object is "to enlist the support of the general motoring public in this campaign for more strict observance of traffic regulations, courtesy of the road, careful driving and other matters designed to promote safety and decrease accidents."

The person joining is given a small booklet explaining the objects, and giving a traffic law summary, and a poster to put on the windshield of the automobile.

Members Sign Pledge

The person joining signs a pledge reading as follows:

"In return for the Southern California Safe Drivers' windshield emblem, furnished by the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California, I agree to drive carefully at all times, familiarize myself with the city and state traffic regulations and then observe them.

"I will do all I can to set a good example by being courteous on the road and further agree that when I dispose of this car, I will remove the safe drivers' emblem."

MANY MOTORISTS VISITING STATE

Some Travel Continent In Automobiles, As Others Ship Cars Here

Many motorists from other sections of the country are in Southern California this season. The statement is based on information from the shipping department of the Auto Club of Southern California, which keeps close tab on the movement of motor cars.

Although thousands of motorists, more than ever before, are traveling across the continent in their own machines, other thousands are taking long distance jumps by rail but shipping their own cars with them, particularly for touring in Southern California.

The shipping department of the Auto club is operated for the purpose of transporting automobiles for motorists at the lowest possible rates and at the least possible trouble.

Organize Groups

Groups of motorists who wish to ship their cars to California or to other lands, are organized by the club through this department, so that freight rates may be secured as low as possible and to the greatest advantage of the motorists.

By tabulating the movement of these motoring groups, the club is thus able to keep a finger on the pulse of motoring activity, and it is declared by its officials that the actual use of automobiles is in a great state of flux (mobility) at this time, due in a large sense, to the attraction of Southern California as a touring field.

Motorists in the central and southern counties are shipping cars in large numbers to Hawaii, South America, India and even to Japan. Shipments are also being made at this time to practically every eastern state for short tours. But the heaviest noted travel is toward this part of California, it is reported.

Watch for Squeaks

The car which has had several seasons of use invariably develops squeaks and rattles from vibration and wear, and in many cases from lack of attention in oiling and in adjusting. To locate the sources of noise is a matter of systematic examination and testing, which should be done after all dust and mud have been washed away, nuts and bolts tightened, lubricating passages cleaned and the car thoroughly oiled and greased.

Heavy Oil

Heavy oil is being adopted for fuel by many manufacturers in the Piedmont provinces of Italy.

CAR PRODUCTION SHOWS INCREASE

Automobile Manufacturers Report Earnings Climb to Highest Point

Time after time the theorists say, "The saturation point in the automobile business."

And time after time the demand for new cars continues and increases.

There is no such thing as a fixed saturation point in automobile production. With the population of the country increasing at the rate of about a million a year, the peak of production is never attained for any great length of time, for the number of prospective buyers is on a constant increase.

The "peak of production" is the point at which all prospective car owners have been supplied with cars, and after which the only orders expected are those for replacements of cars already in use.

Increase Every Year

With every year bringing an increased demand, it is easy to see that this point, while it may be reached, is never held for any great length of time.

Even with numerous difficulties as to manufacture and distribution militating against increased production, the number of cars manufactured in July, 1922, were 39 per cent more than the number produced in the same month in 1921. And July is usually the month of seasonal decline in automobile output.

Neither the railroad and coal strikes, nor the high costs of material and labor have decreased the profit of the manufacturers. From figures compiled from conditions among the larger companies, it appears that the Studebaker company will report this year the largest earnings in its history. General Motors is making large profits.

Oakland Shows Progress

The Oakland, after an adjustment period, is showing exceptionally satisfactory progress. The Dodge, Ford motor, Hudson and Essex companies are all making larger earnings than ever before. The Maxwell is improving rapidly, and the Durant Four organization is looking forward to a profit of five or six millions for the current year. The Nash company is making good progress, and the Reo has recently declared a 100 per cent dividend.

Predictions are that next year's output will be as large as this year's, if there are no serious crop injuries and the strikes are settled. Next year's cars, however, will sell at lower prices, with a correspondingly smaller profit, it

AUTO INCREASES TRAFFIC IN N. Y.

Count on Brooklyn Bridge Shows Big Gain Over Ten Years Ago

The extent to which motorcars have become possible can be known only by watching some main artery of transportation where passing vehicles can be counted.

One of the best places where this can be done is the famous Brooklyn bridge in New York City.

Ten years ago the traffic count showed that 4000 vehicles went across the East river each hour, and that 30 per cent of this traffic was horse drawn.

Computations made for this year show that the traffic is well in excess of 24,000 vehicles an hour, and that 99 per cent of them are motorized. The motorcar is the only modern means of transportation which could make this possible. It is certain that the vehicles must have sure controls for quick stops and starts, and that they must progress rapidly and freely with the traffic officer's directions.

The motorcar is becoming the transportation of the business man, as these figures show. He can have a suburban home and can get to his office in less time with less worry than by the car systems.

Decide Show Dates

It has been decided to hold the annual New York auto show the week of January 6, and the Chicago exhibition is scheduled to open January 27.

ROADS TO PARKS NEED MORE CARE

Auto Owners Complain That Roads Are Neglected at Summer's End

Vacation season is not over yet. Thousands of motorists are taking delayed trips into the mountains and to the coast, according to the Automobile Club of Southern California.

But one of the saddest of facts, as the summer draws to a close is the terrible condition of the roads within the national parks of California, according to authoritative testimony.

In Sequoia, General Grant and Yosemite national parks the roads have been allowed to go to pieces toward the end of the summer because the park officials believed that auto travel was practically finished.

Limit of Endurance

Hundreds of auto owners returning to southern California report to the Auto club that the limit of endurance has been met in the great national playgrounds by the laxness of the park officials and resort owners in letting the roads become nothing more than dusty by-paths, full of holes.

Motorists are asking that the routes in the big parks be kept in good shape for the public until summer travel is completely over. Other states are keeping their national parks in good repair.

Yellowstone has had 94,361 visitors this year and yet no complaints are registered from that quarter. The biggest wail has gone up from motorists in regard to the condition of roads in Yosemite, General Grant and Sequoia preserves, say Auto Club officials.

Charles Y. Knight says:

"THIS is a combination of perfection such as I have never seen in a motor car before, and the public knows it. Willys-Overland has done something that has never been done before. They have built a perfect Knight-motored car in quantities at a low cost."

Sales today more than justify this comment of Charles Y. Knight, inventor of the Knight-type motor and one of the world's greatest students of the internal combustion engine.

DURANT FOUR IS USED IN RESCUE

Word Received That Car Is Being Used at Jackson By City Marshal

One of the agencies actively participating in the efforts to rescue the forty-seven miners entombed in the Argonaut mine at Jackson, Calif., is a Durant Four touring car, driven by City Marshal Marcotte of Jackson, who is doing yeoman work on the relief committee. The Durant Four is running practically night and day, according to I. E. Doty, Jr., a salesmanager for the I. G. Cooley Motors company, Durant dealers, at 312 South Brand.

Word of the work being done by Marshal Marcotte's Durant was brought to the factory of the Durant Motor company of California by the Durant Four durability car, which has returned to the factory from exhibition at the state fair at Sacramento. So far, 32,870 miles of the 50,000-mile run have been covered.

Through Foreign Countries

In its travels, the durability Durant Four has been through two foreign countries and six states, and has maintained an average of almost twenty-one miles to the gallon of gasoline and 1200 miles per gallon of oil, says Mr. Doty. The Fisk tires, which come as standard equipment on all Durant automobiles, have stood the test through all sorts of weather and climate.

"The durability car" is the proper name for the Durant Four, says Mr. Doty.

EXPECT MANY TO VISIT BIG BEAR

Deer and Duck Season Will See Glendale Folk at Camp Potter, Word

A large number of Glendale people have visited Big Bear lake in the San Bernardino mountains during the last few months, according to P. V. Potter, proprietor of Camp Potter.

In commenting on the popularity of the resort with people of this city, he said:

"The apparent increase of Glendale visitors over last season was marked, which is an indication that Big Bear Lake is as dear to the hearts of the people of Glendale as it is to people from other parts of the state."

Expect Glendale Visitors

Additional visitors from this district are expected by Mr. Potter during the coming months.

A number of reservations have already been received for the deer and duck seasons, which promise to be the best in years.

Deer season opened this morning and duck season will open on October 1, both of which fall at the week end, providing the opportunity for a two or three day hunting expedition.

Reservations for boats for the duck hunting season may be made at any time in advance of October 1, according to Mr. Potter. A rush for boats is expected on the opening day for duck hunting.

BUILDS AUTO TO RUN ON RAILWAY

Car That Travels 90,000 Miles Cheats Scrap Heap By Great Record

Would you scrap a car which has been driven 90,000 miles?

Phil Carroll, superintendent of the Kansas division of the Missouri Pacific railroad, didn't, according to Bob Ford of Tanner & Hall, Buick dealers at 237 South Brand. Mr. Carroll, he says, had a Buick touring car which had gone that distance, but it was still in such fine running order that, instead of scrapping it, he built it into a private railroad car which he uses in traveling over his division.

Excellent Service

While greatly altered to conform to the running on tracks, the car gives excellent service, according to Mr. Carroll, and is more satisfactory in many ways than the regulation type of private car.

The wheels are altered and flanged, a cowcatcher, special radiator shell and hood, and a special top were added, converting the touring car into a rail-traveling sedan de luxe.

The car has been driven 10,000 miles by its first owner, and 80,000 by its second, who then traded it in on another Buick, says Mr. Ford.

Lord Curzon Fails to Appear; Asleep

ORLEANS, France—Lord Curzon, British foreign minister, arrived here to consult a specialist recommended by the king of Spain.

He was awaited at the station by a reception committee, acquaintances and newspaper men.

The train pulled in, then switched out into the yards. No Lord Curlon.

As a last resort a disappointed functionary searched the train. He found the British cabinet member in the corner of a carriage, fast asleep.

STUDEBAKER HAS GOOD SALE HERE

Packer Auto Company Tells of New Purchasers Who Are Getting Cars

A shipment of two carloads of Studebaker cars was received this week by the Packer Auto company, 245 South Brand, Studebaker dealers for this district.

Yesterday and today, according to Don Packer, eleven Studebakers are being delivered. The entire shipment, which was received this week, had been sold before it was received, he says, and deliveries are being effected as fast as possible.

Among the recent purchasers of Studebakers in Glendale is James M. Rhoades, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, to whom the Packer company yesterday morning delivered a Big Six coupe.

Proud of Studebaker

"Jim's chest sticks out farther than ever now, as he drives that coupe up and down Brand boulevard," says Mr. Packer.

Peter L. Ferry, local contractor, is also a new Studebaker owner. A Big Six touring car, with many extra accessories, was delivered to Mr. Ferry this week.

"We sell Studebakers before we can get them to deliver," says Mr. Packer, "but we are hoping to receive more shipments soon, so that we can make the deliveries keep somewhere near the sales."

A line of fall closed cars is expected in the next shipment.

INYO COUNTY IS 'SPOOFING' NOW

Harry E. McCartney Finds Story Told Motorists Is Exaggerated

Do residents of Inyo county "spoof" all motorists who happen to visit in their neighborhood? That is the question puzzling Harry E. McCartney of Glendale, who motored to that part of the state some time ago.

Upon his return to Glendale, Mr. McCartney related some of his experiences of his trip. The News printed the following:

"Pine City was the name of the extinct gold mining camp which the McCartneys visited. The proof of the city today rests largely upon the graveyard which accommodates 5000 dead miners on the outskirts of the once famous town where 15,000 persons sought the yellow wealth that lubricates the world's marts into activity. But a scourge, not unlike the recent epidemic of influenza, killed off many of the inhabitants at a time when the gold was thinning out, and Pine City languished and slowly died as its graveyard grew. Today the city of the dead is but a reminder of the Pine City that once lived and worked and played and fought and drank."

Here Is Comment

Commenting on the above story The Inyo Register recently carried the following remarks:

"Inasmuch as Pine City was but a secondary adjunct to Mammoth, which never had a tenth of the total population mentioned above, and as neither locality left a graveyard that would attract attention, it would appear that either Mr. McCartney or the reporter was more or less spoofed, as our English cousins put it.

Now for the comeback.

"We folks in Glendale are used to telling the truth about our city and our early history to motorists who visit us," said Mr. McCartney. "For that reason we accepted the story told us as being the same."

MOUNTAIN ROADS REAL AUTO TEST

Clarence H. Jones, Driving Hupmobile 2,585 Miles, Has No Trouble

Covering a 2,585 mile trip largely over mountain roads with no trouble except a punctured tire, is the record made by Clarence H. Jones of 136 Franklin Court driving a Hubmobile touring car, according to J. H. French of Bartlett & French, Hubmobile dealers, at 107 East Colorado boulevard.

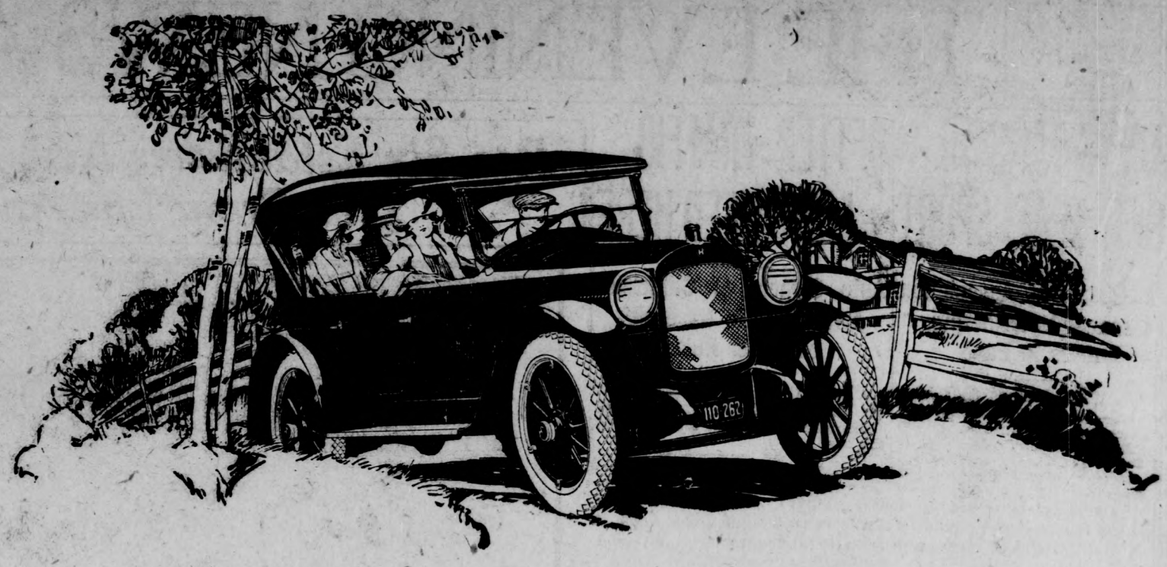
With Mrs. Jones and their two daughters, Adele and Elva, Mr. Jones made a month's tour of California this summer, during which they became Hubmobile fans for life. Several times, on very steep grades, although there were four persons and a complete camping outfit in the car, they passed large six cylinder cars of popular makes. Very seldom, except on extremely rough roads did Mr. Jones have to shift from high to a lower gear.

Car Runs Well

The trip took the party through Oakland, Placerville, Napa valley, Lake county, Santa Rosa, back to San Francisco, Yosemite and back to Glendale. On the entire trip the one punctured tire was the only trouble encountered, and when they arrived home, the Hupmobile was running as well as ever.

"It's a trip like this which makes Hupmobile owners the best Hupmobile salesmen," says Mr. French.

The teeth of the harlequin snake are arranged like those of a cat.



Long-Proven Value Breaking Sales Records

The story of the Hupmobile business since the first of the year is an inspiration.

In all the 14 years of our history, there has been no such succession of shattered records. Never has the factory been called upon to meet such a tremendous demand for its product.

The inference to be drawn from this fact is perfectly plain. It is the Hupmobile that people want, now that buying has settled down to a basis of real dollar-value.

In economy, the Hupmobile stands almost alone. Records carefully kept by business houses which operate fleets of cars show its upkeep and running costs below those of cars whose chief appeal is price.

In performance, it is known everywhere as a remarkable equal of cars which cost a great deal more and are therefore expected to do a great deal more.

Its higher re-sale price is further indication of its high investment value.

USE MAXWELL TO DELIVER PAPERS

Lyman P. Clark of Glendale Motor Car Company Has News of Good Work

Motor cars buyers are watching where each and every dollar invested in their transportation goes, and some of the achievements noted are little short of amazing.

One of the latest of these that has come to light was made known by Lyman P. Clark, of the Glendale Motor Car company, 124 West Colorado street, Maxwell dealers, who announced a remarkable performance record of a 1922 Maxwell touring car delivering papers for the Bakersfield Morning Echo.

This car, which E. L. Ball has owned for seven months, has a daily delivery route of about 125 miles, from the center of Bakersfield to the territory surrounding the Elk Hills oil fields. Never once, in 23,000 miles of travel, has Mr. Ball changed a tire, and moreover, has never changed the air in these tires.

Low Car Cost

To the motorist who knows tire costs and the frequency with which they appear on the expense account of the automobile, this Maxwell performance speaks glowingly of the low cost at which this car can be operated, said Mr. Clark.

"It is chiefly due to the perfect balance of the Maxwell car, the weight being distributed equally on all tires. The springs are underslung on the axle, which puts the center of gravity lower and consequently does not skid the rubber off the tires going around the corners. With a reasonable amount of tire care, every Maxwell owner should get equally as good mileage," says Mr. Clark.

Two Hands or Fine

In New Jersey a motorist was fined $25 recently for violation of the state law which prohibits one-arm driving. According to the magistrate, it takes two arms to drive a car properly, and two arms to hold a girl properly.

RAJO FORD WINS LABOR DAY RACE

Makes Climb Up Pike's Peak Road to Summit House and Wins Trophy

"Labor Day again this year brought new laurels for the Rajo equipped Fords in races throughout the country," says the salesmanager of the Western Auto stores, exclusive western distributors for the Rajo overhead valve cylinder head for Ford cars.

"This year," he says, "Noel Bullock of North Platte, Nebraska, driving a Rajo equipped Ford of 183 cubic inches displacement, outclassed all other cars in the annual Pike's Peak hill climb. He not only won first prize money in his own class, but won the Penrose Trophy cup, as well, winning in competition with cars of 300 and more cubic inches piston displacement.

Up Pike's Peak

"The course was up the Pike's Peak road from Crystal creek to the Summit House, through wind, sleet, rain, over heavy grades and around hairpin turns. Nineteen minutes, fifty and four-fifths seconds after the start Noel Bullock brought his Rajo equipped Ford to a stop claiming the trophy cup, a winner over all the cars regardless of size or make.

"At San Luis Obispo, the same day, Eddie Myers with his "Redlands special" broke the record for cars of 183 cubic inches piston displacement, making fifteen miles in twelve minutes and twenty-five miles in twenty minutes on the mile dirt track.

"The Bullock and Myers victories were made possible by the Rajo overhead valve cylinder head, which test has proved adds eight to fourteen horsepower to any Ford motor. The scientific engineering of this motor enables throttling down to almost walking pace in high gear—three miles per hour with a smooth, even flow of power."

German theatre goers are more interested today in the plays of Shakespeare, Shaw and Wilde than in the production of German dramatists, says the Manchester Guardian.

Studebaker

BIG-SIX TOURING $1650

THE dependability of the Studebaker Big-Six is due to correct design, the use of the best materials money can buy and the highest standard of workmanship.

Studebaker stands in absolute control of the quality of the materials at all times, because Studebaker makes in its own plants such vital parts as motors, transmissions, axles, frames, bodies, tops, castings, forgings, stampings, etc. The parts-makers' profits on such items are, therefore, eliminated and only one manufacturing profit is included in Studebaker prices.

The Big-Six is distinctive in appearance with its handsome body and many refinements. It offers genuine comfort through its long semi-elliptic springs, restful 9-inch seat cushions, fine upholstery and shock absorbers. It is economical to buy and own, and enjoys a high resale value.

The new price of $1650 for the Big-Six Touring car is the lowest at which it has ever sold. Yet the quality is actually better than ever and this means a value that is duplicated nowhere else in the field of fine cars. You won't find greater satisfaction at any price.

The Big-Six Touring car provides ample room for seven. When not in use the auxiliary seats fold neatly out of sight—always ready for instant use when you need them.

The name Studebaker is our greatest asset and your best protection.

Rail Tie-Up Help

The railway tie-ups, while hindering the production and distribution of automobiles in one way, has helped the automobile business in another. The inevitable, self-destructive tendency of every strike is to deflect the work done by the strikers to other channels. There is no such thing as a monopoly of means, by which the world's work must be done, and when one method is shut off, another is always brought into use, usually to the permanent detriment of the other means.

With the railroads blocked and freight to be moved, as well as passengers, the motor car and truck quite naturally bridged a large part of the gap. Some of the business which went to them will never return to the railroads, and the demand for motor cars and trucks will increase.

There is reason for a record year.

BIG DEMAND FOR HIGH PRICE CAR

Reports From Indianapolis Indicate Orders Are Now Taxing Factories

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 16.—Recovery of the nation from the post-war business depression, indicated in a revival of all business and especially the automotive industry, which showed a record production of passenger cars and trucks in June, is reflected again in new signs of life shown by the automobile industry in Indianapolis, home of the high-priced car.

While the greatest production, numerically, was in the lower-priced cars in other cities, production figures for Indianapolis show that, while fewer cars were manufactured here, the value of the local volume was in proportion to that of other cities, the higher price of the Indianapolis cars making up the difference.

1921 Non-Productive

During 1921, which was considered an almost non-productive year, nearly all of the Indianapolis automobile factories, being either entirely closed down or operating at only minimum capacity, a total of 12,000 cars was produced. Despite such hampering influences as a coal shortage and partial paralysis of shipping facilities, which were due to the railway shopmen's strike, 7500 cars were produced during the first half of 1922.

With many managers saying that they are already far behind with orders, the indications are that 1922 will be a record year for Indianapolis factories. The factories are now operating at about 80 per cent capacity. Further increase in production is promised through improved conditions which are expected to result from the resumption of coal shipments and settlement of the shopmen's strike, which will facilitate shipping.

UNDERINFLATION WEARS OUT TIRE

C. L. Montgomery Gives Few Rules to Help Make It Last Much Longer

"The one thing which, more than anything else, is responsible for the premature wearing out of automobile tires is underinflation," says C. L. Montgomery of the Automobile Tire company, Store No. 9, at 143 South Brand.

"Turning corners at an excessive rate of speed, braking or accelerating suddenly, driving on the rails of street car tracks and chafing the tires by running too close to the curbing all do their proportion of damage," he continues, "but underinflation is the worst and most common of all.

"When a tire is not sufficiently inflated it is mushy, making steering more difficult and riding less smooth.

Walls Check

The constant bending and straightening of the walls of the tire cause it to "check," and render it liable to blowouts through the walls. When it hits a bump, the casing is bent practically double and the tire consequently rim cut. A rim cut tire is practically sure to blow out under any unusual strain, and when a tire blows out at the side, 99 times out of 100, it is worthless.

"Some tires are so weak walled that drivers are afraid to fully inflate them, and consequently they suffer from the damage done by underinflation. The Canton cord, which finds greatest favor among the motorist who visit us, has walls and body of exceptional strength, and that, with its "live" tread and honest construction is responsible for its constantly growing popularity."

JESSE E. SMITH AT BIG MEETING

Ford and Lincoln Dealers Hold 'Get Together' In Los Angeles

Jesse E Smith, local Ford and Lincoln dealer, attended a meeting this week at the Ambassador hotel, where ninety-eight Ford motor car sales heads met to establish a spirit of co-operation between dealers.

Other "get together" meetings are scheduled for other Pacific coast cities.

The meeting was presided over by B. L. Graves, manager of the Ford Motor company of Los Angeles.

Average Investment

It was found that the average Ford dealer has approximately $20,000 invested and that amount in each case is backed by about $50,000 by the Ford Motor company.

The question of how to give car owners better service was one of the important subjects that came up for discussion, according to Mr. Smith. Different dealers made brief talks, outlining their ideas on the subject.

"We are only half done with our work when the sale is made," is the message that was given the dealers. "The other half consists in serving our car owners."

Ford dealers will, from now on, be required to give service to owners of Lincoln cars, Mr Smith states.

REO

ROUND TRIP

Los Angeles to Phoenix

Smashes Record

The Sturdiness, Power and Speed of the New Reo Six were thoroughly tested in this dash over 957 miles of mountain and desert road. The round-trip time of 34 hours, 48 minutes, is remarkable considering the terrible road conditions and bad weather encountered. The out-going trip to Phoenix was made in faster time than the record mark set by Herrick as the fastest ever made in the Phoenix Road Race, and the round-trip was faster for each way than the average "Desert Classic" time.

The Reo Six that established this new record was strictly stock in every particular, and absolutely no mechanical trouble of any kind was experienced. The car was driven by Charles H. Bigelow, with Dave Fassett as relief pilot, and H. H. McGillis, newspaper man, as observer.

AUTO THIEF NOW HAS NEW TRICKS

Steals All of Car He Can, If Not the Whole Machine; Club Is Busy

Auto thieves hereabouts are directing their untiring energies to new fields, according to officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Now they are stealing any part of an automobile, in case they cannot get away with the whole car, it is reported. One of their newest stunts is to take the lenses out of the headlights. Many auto owners have returned to their car to find it as blind as a bat so far as any glass in the headlights is concerned.

More than $1,000,000 worth of automobiles is a total loss to motorists so far this year, say detectives of the auto club theft bureau, and over $2,000,000 in cars has been stolen, but about $1,000,000 worth have been recovered.

Thieves Come Here

While Southern and Central California has achieved some fame as a winter resort for wealthy eastern tourists, it has also acquired some fame as a nice warm place for auto thieves at the same time, it is pointed out. Motorists here have greater need to protect themselves against the raids of theft gangs than in any other part of the United States because of the many good roads in this section, the large number of cars and the leniency of the state laws.

A campaign against thieves which is calculated to strike terror to the heart of the most daring is planned by the auto club for this winter. New detectives have been engaged by the club's theft bureau to operate throughout the counties in which the club has offices.

This will be the greatest campaign ever conceived to combat the type of man who will steal automobiles or any part of them. Motorists will be asked to co-operate by reporting thefts at once instead of delaying.

Valise Was Empty, but Sleuths Wait

URBANA, Ohio.—It was at the county fair. A couple of police officials spied a leather traveling bag parked along the race track fence. They suspected it contained hootch.

After waiting over two hours for the owner to make his appearance the guardians of the law took charge of the bag. As they started to walk away a man ran toward them, claiming ownership.

"We've been waiting for you," one officer said. "Now open that bag."

The owner did. It was empty.

Amateur Electrical Work Causes Fires

HUNTINGTON, W. Va.—Amateur repairs on electrical fixtures and connections are among the most frequent causes of fires in Huntington, according to Rush Burks, fire chief. He has just issued a plea to the public in general to call in a competent electrician when repairs are needed. The use of copper pennies for bridging blown-out fuses endangers lives, he declares.

Return to Russia; Are Disappointed

"They would give anything to return to the land of the free and the home of the brave," he said. "Their hopes are blasted, and they say America is the most blessed land anywhere."

A "Four" That Sets a New Standard

The 1923 Buick Four Touring---$1075

In beauty of appearance, dependability and economy of operation the Buick four-cylinder five-passenger Touring has established an entirely new standard for four-cylinder cars.

Its low body with its clean, straight lines, accentuated by the high radiator and straight hood, give it a long, racy appearance that is new to cars of its class. Massive crown fenders add to this distinction, as do the snug-fitting, shapely top and the handsome drum-type head and cowl lamps.

And with this beauty has come a new riding comfort. The seats are deep and low with full leg room in both compartments. The steering column has been changed in position to increase driving ease and the gear shift lever has been raised to meet the driver's hand. A transmission lock, a windshield adjustable from the inside, and a transmission-driven speedometer likewise are among the many new refinements of this model.

Material changes also have been made in motor, chassis and body construction which contribute still further to the wonderful performance record characteristic of Buick cars for twenty years.

Griffin and Marks Put Up Hot Draw; Jim Marus Beats Joe Dunn

Although "Dandy Dick" Griffin did not gain the bantamweight championship of the Pacific Coast in last night's battle with Georgie Marks at the Hollywood American Legion stadium he nevertheless made up for his former defeat at the hands of Marks. The bout was a "corker" throughout the entire four rounds, both boys putting all they had into the fray. Referee George Blake's draw decision was met with the approval of practically all of the fans present, although some thought that Marks had scored a slight shade. It is likely that a return match will be scheduled for this game pair within the next few weeks.

In the semi-windup, which was even more replete with thrills than was the main event, Jimmy Marcus easily outpointed Joe Dunn through four rounds of hectic batting. The other bouts on the card resulted as follows: Jimmy Litten took the decision over Joe White, Jimmy Kackley knocked out Young Leopold in the second round, Alec MacDonald won from Pete Herman, Les Mason scored an even break with Danny Martin and McGowan beat Fox.

Three Leaders Lose

For the second time this week the three leading teams in the Pacific Coast league were defeated by the last three squads in the game day. Yesterday afternoon Vernon was defeated by Sacramento in Los Angeles by the score of 3 to 0, Los Angeles lost to Seattle in the north by the same count and Portland took the count of the league leading Seals up in Frisco by a 9 to 1 total. It's beginning to look as though Bill Essick is facing an almost impossible task in attempting to overcome San Francisco's two-game lead. For the past four days the Tigers have been winning when the Seals won and losing when they lost. However, the Bangaleers are out with blood in their eyes, claiming that the high-flying Bay City squad will be overtaken within the next ten days.

Football Stars Hurt

The first football injuries of the season were reported in Los Angeles yesterday when it was announced that Captain-elect Kenneth Cox and Harry Aides, both stars of the Polytechnic high school eleven, had been taken out of practice for a few days. Cox received a broken nose and Aides a badly bruised face in Thursday afternoon's scrimmage practice. Both players will be ready to again enter the lineup within the next few days, however, according to an announcement made by Coach Voyle Brennan.

Ready to Celebrate

The students of South Pasadena high school have recently organized the "I Knew Him When—" club for the purpose of celebrating the fact that S. Harrison Thompson, former student of the Tiger institution, recently won the all-around athletic championship of the United States. It was the second consecutive year that Thompson has been awarded the honor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Destiny has brought John "Reb" Russell back to the major leagues as an outfielder after he was declared passe as a left-hand pitcher three years ago and forthwith forgotten. A marked inclination to change a pitched ball into a home run will keep him there for some time to come.

Russell is hitting them so far and so often nowadays that he is ranked with Ruth, Hornsby, Williams and Tillie Walker as one of the most dangerous sluggers of the day. He has been up with the Pirates only a comparatively few weeks, yet in that interval his total has mounted into double figures. An even start with the rest of the field and Russell might easily have copped the National League in home runs, if not both the majors.

As it is he has sold himself completely as a come back. He is through with pitching, of course, just as Ruth, Joe Wood and others have given up the mound in favor of the outfield. It would be a unique little plot if Ruth and Russell, two of the leading southpaws of another day and age, should head their respective leagues in slugging next year.

Fate is entirely responsible for Russell's return to the big time. He pitched his arm away for the White Sox between 1912 and 1919, too many curve balls being the answer. He was let out by Comiskey and believed, like the rest of them, that his days in the big leagues had been cut short forever. He went to work in an Indianapolis factory for $40 a week and managed to make a pretty good thing of it by pitching semi-pro ball on Saturdays and holidays.

Enter fate at this juncture. Minneapolis was playing in the Hoosier metropolis and Joe Cantillon was in a bad way for an outfielder. Rondeau having pulled up lame. He heard of Russell, sent for him and offered him a contract. Russell fell for the bait much against his better judgment.

This happened at the outset of the present season. Within a few months Russell was back on the major league circuit.

He hit .350 for Cantillon in the "fill in" role, and so many of his safeties went for extra bases that the Pirates had to do some lively bidding to get him away from several other big league clubs. To date, he has been worth whatever the Pirates paid for him and more.

Rest has brought Reb's pitching arm around to its former strength. But that is the least of his worries. Asked recently if his arm was strong enough to pitch again, he replied, tersely:

"It is, but I won't."

SIGNS SEISER FOR WORK IN GAME HERE SUNDAY

West Texas League Player to Appear In Lineup of Glendale Merchants

Albert "Pep" Seiser, West Texas League player who arrived in Glendale yesterday morning, has been signed up by John A. Cobb, manager of the Glendale Merchants, and will play ball with the local team when they tackle Pirrone's Colts tomorrow afternoon on the local grounds, Park avenue and San Fernando road.

"Pep" Seiser just arrived in California a few days ago from Abilene, Texas, where he had been playing as a general utility man on the Abilene team. This aggregation is now holding third place in the league, and numbers in its personnel some flashy players.

During the first half of this season, Seiser says that he batted an average of .299, and, to date, in the second half, .286. Although in his position as utility man on the Abilene team, he had no regular position, he got in considerable playing, replacing players in every capacity on the team, and Cobb feels gratified at securing so versatile a man. He will place Seiser at second base tomorrow, and it is probable that this will be his steady position on the Merchants.

Fills Weak Spots

Cobb promises as strong an aggregation as has ever appeared under the name of Glendale when his squad trots out on the diamond tomorrow afternoon. During the first part of the season, Cobb devoted his energies to whipping the men he had into shape, and finding their proper positions. Lately, however, he has got the Merchants in smooth running order and has had a chance to look for new material with which to fill in the weak spots and to provide reserves.

Every player who enters the game for Glendale tomorrow is a star. Aageson, the trick twirler, whose offerings follow the general lines of a corkscrew, will start the game on the mound. King, the husky bambino of the Merchants will receive. Bell, the big boy who scoops 'em out of thin air will hold down first. Seiser, the "Texas Leaguer," will be on second, with the scintillating Frank Acosta on third.

"Spark Plug" Wilson will be in the shortstop position. Hard-hitting Griffin, who has busted fences in a few hundred-odd ball parks all over the country, will be back at left field, while Cobb will probably occupy center with Jensen, Heidler or Harris at right.

"Every additional fan at tomorrow's game means another boost toward our trip to Oatman, Kingman and Needles, Arizona," says Manager Cobb. "If Pirrone's bunch show the form attributed to them, I can promise that tomorrow's will be one of the classiest games we have ever played. The team is in better condition than ever before, and all we need to make a victorious trip to Arizona is the support of every baseball fan in Glendale for the next few games."

Though several of the big colleges open their football season on Sept. 23rd, the season will not be properly under way until two weeks later. As usual, the big teams have selected "easy" matches for the opening games. Yale for example meets Bates Sept. 23. Washington-Jefferson plays Geneva and Penn State meets St. Bonaventura on the same date.

The week following, Sept. 30, Princeton, Harvard, the Army, Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh all go into action, and all of them meet the smaller college teams. The Navy is the last of the big teams to open its season, and they will not be seen in action until Oct. 7 against Western Reserve. Out on the Pacific Coast the University of California will open its season on Sept. 30, playing the University of Santa Clara at Berkeley. The Universities of Oregon, Washington and Washington State college all open their season Sept. 30.

Now that Charles W. Paddock has lost his title by default, we can expect to hear all sorts of things said that Paddock can defeat the man who won the United States titles formerly held by temperamental Charles Paddock. Before the public will take any stock in such reports, Paddock will have to show what he can do. We are all from Missouri and particularly so when a "champion" refuses to defend his title. Paddock was a great runner, but his inactivity and refusal to meet the recognized best sprinters of the country will do more to dim and put out of mind Paddock's ability than a defeat in genuine competition would do. It has been said that Paddock is busy writing for various papers, and therefore does not want to tarnish his athletic reputation. We believe he has not only tarnished his athletic reputation, but killed and buried it.

We rise to remark on the coincidence that three negroes have of the last four years proved themselves the greatest broad jumpers in this country. In 1919 at the inter-allied games at Paris, Sol Butler jumped within an inch of the world record of 24 feet 11 and ¾ inches. The next year he followed that up with winning the national broad jump title with 24 feet 8 inches. Last year E. O. Gourdin of Harvard startled the world with a leap of 25 feet 3 inches, and now De Harte Hubbard of the University of Michigan comes along and wins the A. A. U. junior title with 24 feet 3 inches, breaking the former record for this event by exactly one foot 2 inches. So far we have heard no explanation of this wonderful leaping ability of the negro race.

Tagging All Bases

A Giant pitcher almost lasted through a full game when Carmen Hill went along to the ninth inning with a 7 to 1 lead over the Cubs. Bruin batsmen assaulted Carmen's curves in the ninth with such vigor, however, that John Scott was wig-wagged in from the bull pen. Scott struck out Barber and saved a game for McGraw.

Henline and Hornsby staged a home run duel, and the Phillies' catcher won, 3 to 2. Hornsby's were his thirty-sixth and thirty-seventh of the season. Henline's three marked the first time three homers have been hit in one game by one player in the National league since 1897. The Phillies eventually won 10 to 9.

Harris' homer was all the nourishment the Red Sox got from Van Gilder and the Browns crept to within a half game of the lead when they took the long end of a 7 to 1 argument.

The WORLD OVER

By Franklin B. Morse
Pacific Sports Service

It was precisely during the present week last year that the San Francisco baseball club of the Pacific Coast league, cracked and went to pieces, and eventually closed the season in third place. There is no evidence at the present time that there will be any repetition but at the same time neither was there anything to forewarn that the Seals were disintegrating last year. Following is the lineup as it is and was at the end of the twenty-third week of play this year and last:

1922—	W.	L.	Pct.
San Francisco	106	58	.646
Vernon	103	62	.628
Los Angeles	94	70	.577
Salt Lake	77	70	.466
Oakland	76	90	.457
Seattle	71	90	.440
Sacramento	65	99	.396
Portland	43	99	.388
1921—	W.	L.	Pct.
Los Angeles	96	69	.582
San Francisco	97	70	.581
Sacramento	96	70	.579
Seattle	90	72	.556
Oakland	86	79	.521
Vernon	86	81	.515
Salt Lake	65	97	.401
Portland	42	90	.259

Up in Portland, the Beaver team has come out flat footedly and told the world that it is going to do all in its power to see to it that the San Franciscans are beaten out of the pennant by Vernon. Manager Middleton of the northern team has stated that once the Seals are passed, they will drop once again as they did last season. It looks as though Portland was taking out on the Seals the grievance they have against President McCarthy of the league. However, if it furnished any amusement to the fans, little they care.

The Seals gained a full game on Vernon during the last series, but a glance at the standings will reveal the fact that it cannot afford to be dropping any series while the Vernonites are picking them up. The race promises to be a good one unless something or someone cracks and a debacle occurs.

The

Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank

becomes

PACIFIC-SOUTHWEST TRUST & SAVINGS BANK

This change of name is made in order that the title under which this bank operates, together with its Branches in twenty-four California cities, may be properly descriptive of the territory served.

The "Pacific-Southwest" is a term which is generally recognized as representing a unified geographical area composed of that part of California from Fresno south, as well as those western states which are becoming more and more closely affiliated as an economic entity.

The activities of this empire tend to center in and around Los Angeles and the harbor district—its financial capital, its industrial center and its most important shipping point.

The First National Bank of Los Angeles, the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank and the First Securities Company, under one ownership and one management, serve this entire territory.

There will be no necessity for depositors of the Pacific-Southwest Trust & Savings Bank or its Branches to turn in their present check books, pass books, etc. These will be as good after the change as before. There need be no hurry in this regard.

The RIDDLE of the FROZEN FLAME

By M.E. & T.W. HANSHEW

Copyright, 1920 by Doubleday, Page & Company.

A gap in the hedge there was, right enough. And through the gap—someone must have been working here a very short time before—a square of turf, cut carefully out and laid upon one side, revealed to their astonished eyes a wooden trap-door, exactly suggestive of the pirates' den of a child's imagination, and with a huge iron ring fastened to the center of it.

Cleek whistled inaudibly, and turning round upon Dollops a happy light in his eyes and a smile almost of amusement on his lips.

"Gad!" he exclaimed, softly. "Game to try this, Dollops. I am going to have a shot at it myself."

"But you ain't got no firearms on yer, sir, in case o' h'accidents," returned the literal minded Dollops, "and no man in 'is senses would attempt to go down that thing without 'em."

"Well, I've been called a lunatic before this, lad. And going down it I am, this minute. And if you have the least qualms at following me, you can just watch up here and warn me with the old signal if you hear any one coming. But I'm going down, to find out where this thing leads to, and a dollar to a ducat it'll lead to a good deal that means the unravelling of a riddle. The fellow who tangled the threads in the first place has a head any one might admire. But what I want to know is what he's taking all this trouble for. Coming, Dollops?"

Dollops sent a reproachful look into Cleek's face and sniffed audibly.

"Of course I'm coming,' gov'nor," he made answer. "D'yer think I'd be such a dirty blighter as ter let you go dahn there—p'raps ter your very death—alone? Not me, sir. Dollops is a follerin' wherever you lead, and if you chooses 'ell itself, well, 'e's ready ter be roasted and fried in the devil's saucepan, so long as 'e keeps yer company."

Without waiting for the end of this gallant, if rather prolonged speech Cleek knelt down, set his two hands upon the iron ring and pulled for all he was worth. But the ease with which the door lifted came as something of a surprise. It came up silently, almost sending Cleek over backward, as indeed it would have done a man with less poise, but he easily recovered himself. He and Dollops cautiously approached the edge, and in the half light which the moon shed upon it (they did not use Cleek's torch) saw that a flight of roughly-made clay steps led down into darkness below. They sat back upon their heels and listened. Not a sound.

"Coming?" whispered Cleek in a low, tense whisper.

"Yes, sir." Dollops was beside him in an instant. Cleek took the first step carefully, and very slowly descended into the darkness with Dollops close behind him. Down and down they went, and on reaching the bottom, found the place opened out into a sort of roughly-made tunnel, just as high as a man's head, which ran on straight into the darkness in front of them.

"Gawd! gives yer the fair creeps, don't it?" muttered Dollops as they stood in the gloom and tried to take their bearings. "What yer goin' ter do, sir?"

"Find out where it leads to—if there's time," whispered Cleek rapidly. "We've got to find out what these human moles are burrowing in the earth like this for. I'd give a good deal to know. Hear anything?"

"Not a blinkin' sound, sir."

"All right. We'll try the torch, and if any one turns up we'll have to run for it. Now." He touched the electric button, and a blob of light danced out upon the rough clay floor, revealing as it swung in Cleek's swift fingers the whole circumference of the place from ground to ceiling.

"Cleverly made," muttered that gentleman in an admiring whisper. "It reminds me of the old 'Twisted Arm' days, Dollops, and the tunnels that ran to the sewers. Remember?"

"I should just jolly well think I do, guv'nor! Them were days, if yer like it! Never knew next minute if yer were goin' ter see daylight again."

"And this little adventure of ours seems a fair imitation of them!" returned Cleek, with a noiseless laugh. "Let's move a bit farther on and get our bearings. Hello! here's a little sort of cupboard without a door. And . . . look at those sacks standing there against that other side in that little cut-out place, Dollops. Now I wonder what the devil they contain. Talk about the Catacombs! They aren't in it with this affair."

Dollops crept up noiselessly and laid a hand upon one of the great sacks that stood one upon the other in three double rows, and tried to feel the contents with his fingers. It gave an absolutely unyielding surface, as though it might be stuffed with concrete. "'Ard as a ship's biscuit, sir," he ejaculated. "Now I wonder what the dickens? . . ."

THIS MINISTER IS INJURED WHILE BAPTIZING CHINAMAN

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16.—Rev. George E. Nichols, of the First Baptist church of this city, is in the hospital as the result of baptizing several Chinese members of his congregation.

The Baptist ceremony of total immersion in water was being performed without the aid of an interpreter. The largest of the Chinese, not quite understanding what was required of him, became frightened as Dr. Nichols grasped him to put him into the water and collapsed, grabbing at the clergyman.

In saving the frightened man from a bad fall, Dr. Nichols tore a ligament in his back.

HEART AFFECTION KILLS MAN POLISHING TOMB

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Health Officer J. L. Hammer, of Middletown, Orange county, investigated the death of Arthur Willett, aged 25, who succumbed while polishing a tombstone. Willett was working on the gravestone with an electric drill when stricken. Doctors who examined the man decided death was due to heart disease.

REBUKED BY MOTHER, GIRL LEAPS TO DEATH

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Reprimanded by her mother for going out at night too much; Miss Estelle Corrigan, 17, jumped from a four-story window in her home here. She died with a fractured skull two hours later at Roosevelt hospital.

RADIO EXPLAINED

By Lieut. John R. Irwin
Instructor U. S. Air Service

AUDIO AND RADIO FREQUENCY

A new comer into radio experimenting ranks is often perplexed by the two terms called audio frequency and radio frequency.

The necessity of making a distinction in the frequencies in radio is very important. It is generally known that vibrations of over 20,000 per second are inaudible to the human ear. The radio transmitters, depending upon their design, emit vibrations always running into tens, or even hundreds of thousands, and are known as radio frequencies. In the reception of these waves it is necessary to reduce them to within the range of audibility of our ears. Therefore, an arbitrary division has been made by radio engineers and designers to differentiate between the two frequencies. All frequencies above 10,000 are alluded to as radio frequencies and all below 10,000 as audio frequencies.

It must also be remembered whenever the question of frequency is met with in the study of radio that radio frequency is that used in transmission, and that it must ultimately, by various methods, be reduced to audio frequency in order that the telephone receivers commonly used for the reception of signals may function. This is analogous to the transmission of power over great distance by wire. It is generally carried at a high voltage over the greater distance, and, by means of step down transformers, converted to a voltage of 110 volts, ordinarily used in our household scheme.

By means of detectors, either crystal or tube, which are really rectifiers, we convert radio frequencies to audio frequencies. These detectors lop off, as it were, one-half of the cycle, permitting only a flow in one direction, the other alternation being almost eliminated.

APPARATUS AND DEVICES

By RALPH BROWN, Radio Engineer

PROTECTIVE DEVICES

Radio has entered so many homes that the National Board of Underwriters have very materially altered their regulations regarding protective devices against fire by lightning or other electrical risks.

Those who would protect themselves against increased premiums or cancellation of their policies, would do well to inquire of their brokers or agents and meet the new conditions.

They are somewhat lengthy, and cannot be reproduced in the limited space devoted to this subject. However, we show in the accompanying cut a device approved by the Board of Underwriters which may be obtained cheaply.

From investigation it is all that the manufacturers claim, a device that is approved will be found to be very satisfactory.

Book Reviews

Can a married woman have a business career and still do her duty by her husband and children? That is the underlying theme of "This Freedom," by A. S. M. Hutchinson, which was published this month by Little, Brown & Co. The modern woman's answer is yes, but that of the author, being a man, is no. He does not, in this book, create the background that the modern woman would have created in giving sufficient of her time to the training of her children which would have saved them from the disastrous ruin with which they met.

However, whether you agree with the author's viewpoint or not, the book is one you will want to read. After two years' work Mr. Hutchinson has followed "If Winter Comes" with "This Freedom," which is in its essentials a study of married life, like its predecessor; yet Hutchinson is a bachelor, and a man of reserved, even shy temperament, living a retired life with his mother and sister.

"This Freedom" is the story of a happy marriage, blessed with children, a picture the reverse of that depicted in "If Winter Comes." His problem in this case is graver, and is a development of the modern status of women. Can a married woman have a business career and still do her duty by her husband and her children? The sincerity in the woman's cry to be accorded fair consideration as a human being, without prejudice to sex, is shown, but there is also shown the inevitable responsibilities of her sex, according to the man's viewpoint, that "the woman's place is in the home."

However, the author at times does show a very keen insight into the workings of the feminine mind. What will the men readers say when they come to that portion of the book in which Rosalie, the heroine, describes them thus: "They're very fond of saying women are cats. Fools! It's men that are the cat tribe: tame cats, tabby cats, wild cats, Cheshire cats, tomcats and stray cats! Are not they just? And look at them—tame cats are miserable creatures, tabby cats the sloppy creatures, wild cats ferocious creatures, tomcats disgusting creatures, stray cats—on the whole the stray cats are the least objectionable, they are bearable, at the right time and for a short time," which was her viewpoint on the "man" question before her marriage.

TOO GOOD

A juryman petitioned the court to be excused. "I owe a man $25 that I borrowed, and as he is leaving town today for some years I want to catch him before he gets to his train and pay him the money," he said. "You are excused," the judge answered in a very cold voice. "I don't want anybody on the jury who can lie like you."

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— By Howard R. Garis —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND JILLIE LONGTAIL

When Uncle Wiggily started out from his hollow stump bungalow one day, to go look for an adventure, as he very often did, the bunny rabbit gentleman saw, sitting on the steps, Jillie Longtail, the little mousie girl.

"Good morning, Jillie," greeted Uncle Wiggily. "Did you knock on the door, and didn't Nurse Jane hear you?"

"Oh, no, I didn't knock," piped up Jillie in her tiny, squeaky voice. "I was just waiting."

"Waiting for your brother Jollie, or for Nurse Jane?" Uncle Wiggily wanted to know.

"I—I was waiting for you," timidly answered Jillie.

"For me?" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose. "How nice of you. Did you want anything special, Jillie? Did you want to borrow my red, white and blue rheumatism crutch, or my tall silk hat?"

"Neither one!" giggled Jillie, for the old bunny rabbit gentleman made such a funny face she couldn't help laughing. "I—I just want to go adventuring with you."

"You want to go adventuring with me?" cried the bunny.

"As Susie Littletail did?" went on Jillie, trying not to giggle any more. "I got up early this morning, Uncle Wiggily, 'cause there isn't any school, and I came to sit on your doorstep until you should go out. Could you please take me adventuring?"

"Oh, I guess so!" chuckled the bunny. "Since you are such a good, quiet little mousie girl, I'll try and find a quiet adventure for you."

"Thank you," spoke Jillie, and she tied her long tail in a double bow so it wouldn't drag on the ground and hold her back when she was running along with Uncle Wiggily.

Soon they started off. Uncle Wiggily holding Jillie's tiny paw in his larger one. First they went through a field, but the only adventure they had there was when a big grasshopper jumped over their heads. Jillie screamed, but the bunny gentleman laughed and said:

"That isn't an adventure."

Next they went over a little brook, crossing on a bridge. But the only adventure which happened there was that a fish splashed some water with his tail, wetting Uncle Wiggily and Jillie.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Mr. Longears. "That gave us a shower bath and cooled us, Jillie. But still that isn't an adventure."

"When shall we find one?" asked the little mouse girl.

"Oh, pretty soon, perhaps," answered Mr. Longears.

And the adventure came sooner than they expected.

Uncle Wiggily and Jillie were hopping along together in the deepest, darkest part of the woods when, all of a sudden, there sounded a loud noise.

"Oh, is that thunder?" squeaked the little mousie girl. "I didn't bring a rain umbrella, Uncle Wiggily!"

"No, that isn't thunder," answered the bunny gentleman. "There isn't a cloud in the sky, though sometimes you can hear thunder when there are no clouds. But this wasn't thunder, Jellie, and it isn't an adventure!"

"Oh, yes it is, too!" suddenly growled a most unpleasant voice, and out from under a pile of brush crashed the big black Bear. "It's an adventure all right! I'm the adventure, Uncle Wiggily, and I'm going to take you with me off to my den! Come along!" growled the Bear.

Before Uncle Wiggily could hop away the Bear caught hold of him and began dragging him through the woods.

"Wait for me! Oh, wait for me!" squeaked Jillie, "I don't want to be left alone in the woods!"

"Yes, you must wait for Jillie!" insisted Uncle Wiggily. "I'm not going to have her left alone."

"Oh, well, come on then!" growled the Bear. "I suppose I can nibble Jillie as well as you." He waited a moment for Jillie to catch up to him and then the Bear started dragging Uncle Wiggily off again. He went so fast that again Jillie was left behind.

"Wait for me!" she squeaked.

"Here! This will never do!" grumbled the Bear. "I can't go as slowly as you. I'll pick you up and carry you, that's what I'll do!"

So he picked Jillie up in his other paw and was carrying her along, and dragging Uncle Wiggily, when, all of a sudden the little mousie girl thought of a trick to play on the Bear.

Quickly loosening her tail from the bow knot, Jillie tickled the Bear with her tail on the end of his soft and tender nose.

"Oh, wuff!" cried the Bear. "Stop it!" but Jillie only tickled him again on his nose. Now as the Bear had hold of Uncle Wiggily with one paw, and was carrying Jillie in the other, the only way he could scratch his itching nose was to let go of Uncle Wiggily or else to put Jillie down. Again the mousie girl tickled the Bear's nose so much that he had to use both his front paws to scratch. To do this he let go of Uncle Wiggily and he put Jillie down.

"Come on, now, Uncle Wiggily. This is our chance! Run!" squeaked Jillie. And while the Bear was scratching his ticklish nose, away the bunny and mousie girl ran, and soon they were safe in Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow.

"My! What an adventure that was!" panted Jillie.

"Glad you liked it!" laughed the bunny.

But everything came out all right, didn't it. And if the poll parrot doesn't try to use the fish hook to button her shoes with and make the rubber doll laugh, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Jollie Longtail's cheese.

Your Duty---And Your Highest Privilege

To consider the purchase of a cemetery lot today is to act sanely and wisely; to purchase in "Beautiful Forest Lawn" is to exercise extreme wisdom. We have all witnessed the distress of relatives distracted by sorrow, forced to buy a lot when they could least afford it, and sorry they had not purchased at a better time. Great peace of mind is afforded by the thought that when necessity arrives, as it must, a plot in "Beautiful Forest Lawn" has been wisely provided in advance of actual need.

AS AN INVESTMENT and economical measure, few purchases yield as high return in dollars and cents, as well as in satisfaction. In a MEMORIAL park of the highest type with PERPETUAL CARE, such as "Beautiful Forest Lawn" offers, a lot increases in value from year to year. "Putting it off" only adds to the inevitable expense.

A visit to "Beautiful Forest Lawn" will amply repay you. Then, and only then, will you realize that here is California's most beautiful park. So calm and serene that all sense of mortality is lost in the peacefulness and beauty of the place.

Everything that art, science and loving care can devise has been planned for different forms of burial—be it earth burial, mausoleum crypt, cremation, columbarium niche or private vault.

READ THE NEWS WANT-ADS

The right kind of pride,

it's developed when you own your home.

Pride is a much used word in both of its common meanings. When one is impressed with his own superiority; when he becomes arrogant and supercilious in his attitude toward his fellowmen; then pride is a hindrance to success and a bar to popularity.

But when one displays a proper sense of his personal dignity and worth, an honorable self-respect or self-gratulation, he has planted his feet squarely on the highroad to success and has established that basis for popularity which will stand him in good stead throughout the years.

One of the most effective ways to develop the right kind of pride in the individual is to own your home. Somehow or other you can neither command the respect of your friends and associates, nor yourself, when you are found changing your address annually or oftener.

A man is not found bragging to his fellow business men when he moves to a new rented apartment—but when he takes possession of his own HOME, whether it be a cottage or a mansion, it's different.

What a metamorphosis will be observed in such a one in a short time, to be sure. You will see him pushing a lawn mower and acquiring a healthy tingle as the blood rushes through his veins and a healthy coat of tan as the genial sun caresses him with its soft rays. You will see him superintending the preparation of the ground for the wife to put in a real old-fashioned flower garden—like she had at the old home, way back somewhere. Anon you will find him building a doll house for little daughter, or a dog kennel for son; or putting up a swing where his happy kiddies may entertain their friends, some of whom may not be so fortunate as to have a place of their "very own."

Once he was the nuisance of the office because of his constantly rehearsing old tales of auto or fishing trips. Now, all that has changed. Not that he has lost the zeal for outings or amusements—by no means. But he has had a vision of himself as a home owner and his wife as mistress of a place where she has not to plan from month to month for a possible dispossess notice.

It has revolutionized the man and made him more valuable to himself, to his employer, to his friends, to society. He has quit drifting around on the sea of life like a ship without a rudder. He has set a straight course to SUCCESS AND HAPPINESS. And he will arrive.

You who are reading this are thoroughly convinced that it is true—every word of it. Suppose you take a look inward. What class are you in? Have you developed the RIGHT KIND OF PRIDE by OWNING YOUR HOME? If you have not, when are you going to start? The best time—the only time—is Now. Yesterday is past and gone—you cannot recall it. Tomorrow may not be yours—you have no assurance of a tomorrow. TODAY IS YOURS. The present opportunity is available—why not make the most of it?

The very first thing for you to do after deciding to build, is to determine just what kind of architecture to adopt; after this the room arrangement, conveniences, etc., must be given as serious consideration.

You have certain requirements that must be met, both for the present and future.

When all of this is decided, the next and most important step is to secure detailed building plans, as they advise your contractor just what you want done and how to execute every department of the work which effects worthwhile saving in time and expense to him and money for you.

Plans carefully developed assures best built homes at smallest possible cost.

Here are some of your friends in this city, who have expended their money in the effort to show you a way to the better kind of pride. They are anxious for your success. They earnestly advise you to lose no time in acquiring your own home. If you will address an inquiry to the Home Building Editor, care of this paper, your inquiries will be given prompt attention.

WHAT WE MARRY

"But he will do anything in the world for me. He is absolutely different with me than he is with other people."

I suppose you can guess the sex and condition of the person who made that statement. A woman in love. Or perhaps I should say a woman who had a man in love with her.

Someone had warned her that the man who was much in love with her and wanted to marry her was very selfish and bad tempered and had told her certain things to prove it.

Whereupon she made that triumphant answer.

Poor, foolish girl! If what she was told is true it simply means that she is putting her trust not in the character of the man she is to marry but in his present feelings toward her.

Life Couldn't Go On

I emphasize the word present. Not because I think this man is fickle. I don't. But simply because I think that the intense feeling which swing people into matrimony simply cannot last with anyone. Life couldn't go on if it did. Would the work of the world ever get done if we were all lovers mooning about thinking of our loved ones instead of our work. That intense all devouring feeling may become transmuted by the years into a glorified tenderness and friendship, or it may disappear leaving only habit and tolerance in its place.

But, in either case, you can no longer depend upon it as a motive power to govern the actions of the other party towards you.

What you have left to deal with is simply his original character.

If people could only realize that before they married instead of after we might be wiser in our choices.

The Things to Watch

If, instead of being influenced by the way her lover acts toward her, a girl would be watching to observe how he acts toward his mother and sister, towards people who serve him, towards casual strangers; what his ideas of honor are; whether he pays bills promptly, what kind of a sport in the matter of games he is, and whether he is fair-minded in an argument; she would know what she would have to deal with five or ten years afterwards, when the original illusion had died down.

And, likewise, if a man would try to discover how much courage and patience and common sense and maternal instinct and sense of honor and the innumerable other virtues it takes to make a successful wife lay behind the determination to please him of courtship days, he would know what he was getting into.

For it's always the character you are marrying and not the love.

And that means YOU who are saying to yourself: "That may be true of common people but our case is different. We are so much in love that we shall never get over feeling just this way."

The More Fool I

Poor, foolish woman! And this time I mean myself. For I might as well try Canute's truck and stand on the shore and tell the waves not to come in. Love is the veil that nature throws over character in order to make ordinary people fancy each that the other is extraordinary and that they cannot be happy unless they marry, and thereby unintentionally serve nature's supreme end. And who am I to think I can pull that veil aside?

WHAT DID DADDY DO AT GAME?

There is a baseball player named Rogers Hornsby. There is also a team known as the St. Louis Cardinals. They recently had hopes of winning a pennant. New York settled that. However, that is another story. Rogers has a baby, 22 months old, and the story is that the baby is already studying the dope that certain sport writers write about baseball players. Averages and such. So Daddy Hornsby is trying to eclipse Babe Ruth in so far as hitting is concerned.

Diet and Health

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Are Fat People Good Natured?

"Dear Doctor or Doctoress:

"Although I am not fat, I have been reading some of your articles and I would have had no remarks to make had you not published an embarrassing story that I myself had originated some twenty-five years ago. When your party says that the embarrassing moment really happened—well, what's the use of saying hard words? For light and amusing reading I think counting calories has got all the funny stuff ever produced, backed off the map.

"My cure is for the fat and sassy ones to quit looking after themselves so carefully and letting 'George do it.' Steam up and work so hard each day that when 9 p. m. comes round they are mighty glad to hit the hay. Fat men invariably shirk all work that cannot be done sitting down.

"Fat women can soon lose flesh if they will quit shirking the responsibilities of marriage, raise and personally take care of a large family, do a family washing once or twice a week, keep a ten-room house in perfect order, and take care of their beloved husbands, and see that he has nice chow to eat and do other little jobs while resting.

"In one of your articles you write that fat people are not good-natured. Strange, if true, as I never met a fat person that was not superlatively joyful. That is how they get others to work for them. One is simply drawn to them by admiration of their happy-go-lucky disposition. Life is too short to really bother about thinness or fatness, but I do not doubt that telling others about how to get thin pays sound clinking dollars, and that is what buys bread and bacon.

"This letter would not have been written if my story had not been cribbed as I really am too tired to write. Kindly keep in mind that I do not claim any education. I am just a plain human, willing and able to work and produce more than I eat, content to let the other fellow enjoy himself as he sees fit, and when he goes wrong through wrong living, count calories until he takes his final sleep. With best wishes, excuse my exit.—Joe."

Your letter was too long to give all of it, Joe. May I point out that you are contradictory? First you slam us a little and then you slam the F. F. F. a lot more, but you end up by showing that you are a very kindly disposed human, after all, and we are glad you wrote.

Now, about your story being cribbed. I don't believe it was, Joe, for we have many times known of similar things happening. For instance, I have had five or six tell me they have had the same experience in the elevator that I had.

The method you have for keeping down the fat on us ladies appeals to me, as no doubt it will to many. A ten-room house and a nice family and a beloved husband to cook chow for is invitin'.

Are you married? Of course! All good men like you are snapped up quick. (I am not joking, honest!)

I did say that fat people are not good-natured—that they were apathetic—and now I am having to eat my words. I referred to those very much over-weight who really are apathetic because of self-poisoning. But I am going to insist on this point. Fat people are not good-natured because they are fat. They may be fat because they are good-natured. I will admit that. The fact that they take things happily and do not use up much energy in useless fretting does help them to store up fat undoubtedly—when they eat more than they need. But they are very much better natured when they are reduced. I know that personally and from numerous letters I have received.

Your comment that telling others how to get thin brings in the clinking dollars is true, very true. I am sans doute, Joe, the highest paid medical writer in the United States; therefore I think we can say in the world. 'S fact!

And the many thousands who have followed my advice and have regained their health and happiness, are glad of it, with me. Ain't it the truth?

I am glad you thought your story was cribbed, Joe, else you would not have written.

Dear Thirteen-year-old Girl: No, you are not overweight for your height. For sixty-two inches you could weigh 110 to 120 pounds. Don't worry about your feet being long. There is nothing you can do about them. You are a tall girl and you need good length feet to support you. One of our most successful and most graceful movie actresses has very large feet but she dresses them simply in well fitted shoes and nobody ever thinks of them. It certainly has not detracted from her work nor her beauty in the least. Forget yours, Chicken.

Beauty Chats

by Edna Kent Forbes

EXERCISES OF PRONUNCIATION

In a recent "Chat" I stated the reasons for the following exercises, which are part of an excellent course in elocution. They may also be considered as a course in beauty culture, since they build up all the muscles of the lower part of the face, making the cheeks firm and the mouth youthful.

Through the practice of these exercises mild cases of stuttering have been cured and all nervous habits of the mouth, like lip biting, are apt to be overcome. So, for other reasons than youth and beauty, they are worth trying, and after they have become a habit they can be taken at all odd moments without consuming any extra time. A housekeeper can be taking the exercise while she does her work, or they may be taken while out for a walk, as they are done in whispers or orally.

The exercises amount to pronouncing a certain set of consonants placed before each of the vowels, in every one of their sounds, and the diphthongs of "oi" and "ow." If you are not familiar with all of the vowel sounds, any dictionary will give them.

In pronouncing, each little syllable is to be given its full value of sound, while all of them are to be pronounced as rapidly as possible—taking breath at any convenient point. In practicing, throw emphasis on one of the little syllables on each line, changing the emphasis to a different syllable pleted. The emphasis must always every time the full set is comfall in the same place on the different lines throughout the exercise. The sounds then become rhythmic, and much like marking time in music. The combinations are as follows:

ba da pa ta pa
wa ba ja cha za
wa va fa va wa
spa kstha sfa
dra bla pla dwa gra kra

The last line of these combinations is designed to make the jaw hinge supple, and when it is taken with the two dipthongs it becomes a general set of exercises for the cheeks, mouth, chin and throat.

After practising these exercises all the facial muscles will feel refreshed, while the lips will be mobile. A few months of the work will make a difference of many years when the mouth has become prematurely aged and, in addition, the quality of the voice will become enriched.

Reader:—Deep breathing is the best way to develop the chest. Stand in an open window or outdoors and breathe deeply. Take in, at least, a dozen breaths, aiming to fill the lungs at the base first; after that aim for the middle part and the top part will take care of itself and exhale in about the same number of counts.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

SUNDAY DINNER MENU

Little Melons (Halves)
Tomato Bisque Curled Celery
Strips of Veal, Breaded
Sweet Potato Souffle
Sliced Peaches
Cauliflower and Red Pepper Salad
Peach Melba
Cafe Noir

Tomato Bisque—Put one cup canned tomatoes in saucepan, bring to the boiling point and let simmer until reduced two-thirds; then force through puree strainer. Mix the tomato puree with five cups of veal stock and four tablespoons heavy cream. Bring to the boiling point and add one-eighth teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt and a few grains of pepper.

Curled Celery—Select the tender white stalks and wash carefully. Cut in four or five-inch lengths, then cut each end in thin pieces to within one-half inch of center. Place in ice water and let stand one hour to crisp and curl.

Strips of Veal Breaded—Wipe one and one-half pounds of veal cut in one-half inch slices from the leg and place in pot and cover with one and one-half quarts of boiling water and add two teaspoons salt. Boil gently until it is tender (about thirty minutes). Remove from the water and allow to cool until easy to handle. Remove the bone and skin, and cut into strips two inches by four or five inches. Mix one-half teaspoon paprika, one teaspoon salt and one and one-half cups cracker crumbs. Roll each piece in one egg (or two yolks will do) which has been beaten with two tablespoons cold water, then in crumbs, then in the egg, and again in the crumbs. Pat the crumbs onto the meat. Arrange the meat on a platter and allow to stand fifteen minutes. Have sufficient fat in pot to cover meat and when it is hot, add the veal croquettes, and turn to cook each side. When a delicate brown remove and drain on paper. Keep hot in oven.

Sweet Tomato Souffle—Wash, peel and cook until tender four or five sweet potatoes. Drain, mash and season with butter, salt and pepper. To two cups of the mashed potatoes, add gradually one cup of cream, and when thoroughly blended, add the yolks of two eggs, beaten until thick and lemon colored; then the whites of two eggs, beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake in a slow oven until firm. Serve immediately.

Cauliflower and Red Pepper Salad — Remove leaves from choice head of cauliflower, cut off stalk, and soak thirty minutes (head down) in cold water to cover. Drain and place, head up, in pot and cook until tender in quart of boiling water to which has been added one cup of milk and one tablespoon salt. Drain and chill thoroughly. Separate into flowerlets and mix with two sweet red peppers, which have been parboiled fifteen minutes in boiling salted water, then chilled and chopped. Add salad dressing and toss lightly together.

Peach Melba—Wipe, pare and cut in halves fresh peaches. Make a syrup by boiling together two cups sugar and one cup water ten minutes, then add one teaspoon of vanilla; place prepared peaches in the syrup and simmer until they are soft. Drain and chill. When ready to serve, place a spoonful of vanilla ice cream on plate, lay one or two halves of peaches (cut side down) on it and put another spoonful of ice cream on top.

TELLS HOW TO BE VERY VILLAINOUS

Cleo Ridgely of Glendale Gives Explanation—for Film Use Only

Want to be a mean, villainous woman on the screen? Be a loving mother, then, if you would portray a character cruel and hard.

This is the advice of Cleo Ridgely, of 1445 Valley View road, Glendale, called the champion "villainess" of the screen, now appearing with Constance Binney in "The Sleep Walker," a Realart for Famous Players-Lasky release, which comes to the Glendale Theatre for two days next Sunday. And Miss Ridgely should know—for only four years ago she was a star and leading woman of the screen. Then she retired to be married and became the mother of twins, Jimmie and June Horne.

"For a woman to be cruel to-ards another woman," says Miss Ridgely, "especially a woman with children—you have to know what maternal love means. I am playing in this picture the role of a selfish woman, cruel to her own children and seeking to ruin another mother. If it weren't that I am a mother myself, I would fall short of knowing just where to start to hurt most the heart of a mother and a child."

Lady Lo Wah, Cantonese soprano, in Oriental costume, will be presented in concert by Manager William A. Howe at Sunday evening's performance.

Ten thousand passengers sailed in one day this summer on fourteen transatlantic liners from New York for Europe, and it is estimated they spent a total of about $15,000,000 on their trips.

HEADLIGHT RAID IS PROMISED NOW

Adjustments Set New Record Is Report; Glendale Has Three Stations

Last week set a new record for headlight adjustments by official headlight adjusting stations, according to officials of the California automobile trade association. Three thousand, two hundred and fifty headlights were adjusted during that period, it is announced.

The increase is said to be due to traffic inspectors' raids in various communities.

The adjusting stations have been in operation throughout the state for three months and over 15,000 motorists have voluntarily had their lights adjusted to comply with the law.

There are three official adjusting stations in Glendale, and all are now in operation. They are: Autoelectric Service company, 113 West Harvard; Psenner Bros. Auto Electric company, corner South Brand and Chestnut; Day & Night Garage, 217 East Broadway.

State and local officials declare that the period of "grace" has been ample and will now start to conduct headlight raids.

"There is absolutely no truth," says T. T. Templeton, illuminating expert of the association," in the statement that headlight adjustment means cutting down light. If properly done the result is far superior to the original adjustment of the average lights.

"All new cars should be sent to adjusting stations because factories make little or no effort to adjust lights.

SQUARE DEAL FOR OFFICERS IN FILM

Home Life of Policeman Is Feature In Picture on T. D. L. Program

"In the Name of the Law," now being shown at the T. D. & L. theatre, gives the policeman a square deal, according to Glendalians who have seen the film. In addition to its dramatic worth the film shows in interesting sequence the fine home life of the average policeman. It shows also his family, his devoted wife, his splendid children; their struggles to save for a modest little home. It portrays, too, the hazards, risks and great dangers the policemen of today confront in the performance of their daily duties.

Sharing honors with the feature is a Harold Loyd special three-reel comedy, "Among Those Present." Reports from the performance last night state that the audiences roared for an hour over Lloyd's antics.

The filmization of Marie Corelli's "The Young Diana" will be the Sunday attraction at the T. D. & L. It is one of Miss Corelli's most striking novels and it has been filmed with great elaborateness by Cosmopolitan Productions. Marion Davies heads the cast and is supported by Forrest Stanley, Pedro de Cordoba, Maclyn Arbuckle and Gypsy O'Brien.

Prepare for 'Hop' Off of Big Blimp

BELLEVILLE, Ill., Sept. 16. — Preparations were being made at Scott field here today for the next "hop" off of the C-2 in its transcontinental flight. The big blimp landed here late last night, without the slightest mishap. Lights were placed about the field and the landing was made with ease.

The right kind of pride,
it's developed when you own your home.

There are different kinds of pride. There is the arrogance and superciliousness of the upstart. There is the lordly attitude of the one one can point back to a long line of prominent ancestors. But there is one kind of pride which is welcome in all circles — that which comes with Home Ownership.

Immediately you seek to put your belongings in the most comfortable and attractive condition. Instead of living from hand to mouth, you see monthly and yearly your condition improve because of the investment in your home — — of time, labor and cash. And it's all worth while.

Our place is to help you find a plan which is pleasing to you — we have literally thousands of them at your disposal. And then we are prepared to assist you in securing worth-while materials and will direct you so that your money will go the farthest in securing a legitimate return.

Don't hesitate to call on us and claim our services. We can make it worth while to you, and if you need a reasonable loan in order to build, we may be able to assist you in arranging that, also. Let us hear from you.

A complete home in Glendale's choicest, close-in residential section. Nine rooms—living room 14x28, music room, or libaray, dining room, breakfast room, kitchen and screen porch on first floor. Four great big bedrooms and the daintiest of complete bathrooms on the upper floor. Commode and lavatory on the lower floor. House was built by day labor, and the best artisans that money could procure carefully placed together selected lumber to form this beautiful home. The inside is all cabinet work. Lighting fixtures are lovely—one in dining room costing nearly $150.00—all hand-made. There is a large basement containing the heating plant, etc. Gas wall radiators in each room and electric plugs conveniently placed. Closets and built-in conveniences everywhere. Lovely, vine-covered pergola leads from the house to the great, double garage with its 15-foot solid cement entrance drive. Lot 60x150, covered with lawns, flowers and shrubs, tastefully landscaped, occupies the preferred corner of two of Glendale's most beautiful residential streets. Sprinkling system over entire place made of extra large pipe. For a few days I can deliver this for $3000 less than it cost to build.

Flag Signals Fail When Bull Is Hit

BRAINTREE, Mass.—It would be great to have bulls educated in flag signals, according to New Haven railroad brakemen.

A bull at Braintree Highlands wandered onto the railroad tracks just as a train was approaching.

The locomotive sideswiped the bull and pushed him aside. According to all good train practice the train was stopped to see what damage was done to the bull and a brakeman sent to the rear to stick up a red flag to warn any oncoming trains.

The bull, peeved by the red flag and forgetting that he had been hit, drove at the red-flagging brakeman like a thunderbolt. The brakeman beat the bull to the platform just about in time.

If a hole were punched in an electric light bulb small enough to let in 1,000,000 atoms of oxygen a minute, it would take 100,000,000 years to fill the bulb.

Grossman-Miller Co. Increase Store Room

Expansion of business has made it necessary for the store at 246 North Brand boulevard to be enlarged by the Grossman-Miller Furniture company.

The storeroom, adjoining the one they originally occupied, has been leased. This gives them approximately 1200 square feet of additional floor space on which to properly display their ever increasing stock of furniture.

Both I. Grossman and H. H. Miller are very much elated over the present condition of their business. They are confident that it will continue to increase in the future as it has in the past.

"We expect to grow along with Glendale," remarked Mr. Grossman. "It is just as well to give the public what it wants in the furniture line as well as any other line."

BROADWAY CUTOFF COST ESTIMATE IS PRESENTED

Improvement Will Come to About $75,000 If No Delay; Ten Years to Pay

A meeting of property owners, the majority of whom favor the opening and widening of West Broadway at Central, was held last night at the Sunset Motor Works' garage, 470 West Broadway. About seventy-five attended.

The meeting was called to order by James H. Sherman, 341 West Broadway, who acted as chairman. Albert C. Read was secretary.

City Manager W. H. Reeves attended the meeting and told those present of the many advantages for the city as well as themselves in the proposed improvement.

"The cost now is low compared with what it probably will be in the near future as values increase," he told them. He also stated that the improvement would help to increase the values to a great extent.

C. L. Hill, city engineer, explained the probable costs and how they would be distributed.

Delay Will Be Costly

If the property owners delay, the cost might run up to $100,000 or even more as the property values increase, he declared.

The present estimated cost is in the neighborhood of $75,000, it was announced.

"Broadway and the entire city needs an outlet to the west," Mr. Hill declared. "It will help to promote the growth of the city in the future."

Petitions have been circulated in the district against the improvement. Several of those circulating them were at the meeting last night and presented their side of the agreement.

Ten Years to Pay

It was explained by the city officials that the money would be raised by a bond issue, and that the property owners would have ten years to pay. It would not require a cash settlement, they said.

The majority of those attending the meeting last night were said to now favor the improvement. A committee of six or more will make a thorough canvass of the district and explain the proposition to any who may be in doubt as to the costs and benefits.

Several persons attending the meeting declared that they had been misinformed regarding the probable costs and had originally been in favor of the change, but later signed petitions against it. After the meeting they declared themselves as favoring the withdrawal of their names from the protest petitions.

Bonus Bill Is Now Ready for Harding

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16. — The battle-scarred soldiers' bonus bill reached the end of its long, long trail today.

The fate that awaits it at the White House, following its final passage by the senate by a 2 to 1 vote, was considered uncertain today and was a subject of lively difference of opinion on the part of those who were its chief architects.

President Harding informed some of the Republican leaders of the senate a few weeks ago that he did not approve the bill, and was inclined to veto it. Whether developments since that time have caused a change in the executive's ideas only developments within the next few days can determine.

LETTERS EVIDENCE HOW THIS CITY RECEIVED NAME

above the postoffice the residents called the community Glendale and when asked where they lived answered Glendale.

And so Glendale grew and for six years the Glendalians received their mail at Mason postoffice, Los Angeles county, until in 1891, when President Harrison and Postmaster-General John Wanamaker visited the Pacific coast.

Mrs. E. T. Byram had considered the matter of asking several Glendale people to join her in a personal appeal to the president and postmaster-general for the much-desired change of name, but ill-health prevented her and instead she wrote a letter to Mr. Wanamaker at San Francisco.

She said in part:

"Your speech in Los Angeles last week encourages us to 'try again' in asking a favor of you, the changing of our postoffice name from Mason to Glendale, the latter being the name of our town. Five years ago this spring we asked for a postoffice, which was finally granted with the name Mason with the statement that Glendale could not be used as there was a Glendale in Colorado, hence it would cause confusion, not even giving us the privilege of choosing another name.

Citizens Plan Test

"The citizens were indignant and thought they would test the matter, so many of us have never used the name Mason at all. All kinds of mail addressed to Glendale, Cal., comes to us direct from all parts of the world. After five years' experience and no confusion or trouble, ought we not to have our town name for our postoffice? What steps will be necessary to procure it? A petition will gladly be signed by all, I know, for I am stating the desire of the entire community. I am writing this on my own responsibility, no one knowing of it but my husband. Hoping for a favorable answer I am,

"Sincerely yours,
"MRS. H. H. BYRAM,
"April 28, 1891."

In reply, Mr. Wanamaker wrote:

"I thank you very much for your kind letter of the 28th of April, and as the matter of changing the name will have to be investigated at Washington, I refer your letter to the first assistant postmaster-general, who is acting postmaster-general during my absence. In case there should be any delay I trust you will write me again on my return home. With great respect, I am,

"Yours very truly,
"JOHN WANAMAKER."

Rule Disregarded

Some weeks later Mrs. Byram received the following letter from the first assistant postmaster-general, dated May 11, 1891:

"Your letter of April 28 forwarded to the postmaster-genera! has been forwarded to me for consideration and answer. I note what you say in reference to the name of Mason being changed to Glendale, and also your reference to the previous order of the department declining to grant you the name Glendale on account of there being an office of the same name in Colorado.

"The rule of our department is against allowing a repetition of names in these two states on account of a similarity of the abbreviations of the names of the states. I shall, however, in this case disregard the rule and have this day ordered that a change be made and as soon as the necessary papers are filled out and your postmaster is commissioned under the new name, your office will be known as Glendale."

And that is how 30,000 and more people happen to be living in Glendale and enjoy the privilege of being called Glendalians.

VAUDEVILLE ACTS SURE TO PLEASE

Glendale Theatre Is Offering Attractive Program for Patrons Tonight

There are five exceptionally attractive acts comprising the new vaudeville bill at the Glendale theatre, today. Among these is Du Rocher Duo offering singing, talking, dancing and instrumental numbers.

Jimmy Dunn entitles his contribution "My Trip to the Farm." His mimicry of the various animals of the barnyard are delightfully clever. Kennedy and Martin offer "Blackology." This is a real laughing gem.

Larry Riley is "The Lad From Dublin," and has plenty of novel entertainment, while Almond and Hazel in "Summer to Winter" also have a delightfully appealing act.

Western speed is the speediest speed there is. And "Western Speed," a Fox picture, with Charles Jones as star, is the attraction today in conjunction with the variety bill. It is a production of strength and American red-bloodedness, and presents an unusually absorbing story of love, fight and adventure.

doors have upper panels of opaque glass.

Plenty of Exits

At either end of the corridor are large exits which lead to broad cement stairs to the playground. There are exits also in the rear of the building.

The auditorium, which will accommodate about 600 pupils when built, will be constructed immediately behind the main entrance. Three doors to communicate with it have been installed already.

The principal's private office is immediately to the right of the main entrance. This is ten by eleven and a half feet in size. Adjoining it and also connecting with the entrance hall is a small reception room about eleven and a half feet square.

The teachers' rest room, which is about eleven and a half feet by fourteen feet in size, adjoins the entrance hall to the left.

The front half of the first floor contains four class rooms, two at either end of the building. Each of them is thirty and a half by twenty-four and a half feet in size.

Where Girls Cook

The domestic science room occupies the southwest corner of the first floor. This room, which is about thirty-three feet square, has been fitted up with all necessary kitchen furniture and will accommodate about twenty girls at once. Adjoining is a large pantry and a small model dining room.

The manual training room, which is also about thirty-three feet squarae, occupies the northwest corner of the first floor. Enough carpenter benches to accommodate twenty boys are being installed. Adjoining this room is a tool crib and another room for the storage of lumber. Double doors to the exterior of the building make it possible for supplies to be delivered here without confusion.

A book room, ten feet wide and thirty and a half feet long, also occupies a portion of the rear of the first floor. This is to the left of the main entrance.

Four stair cases, each eight feet wide, has a frontage of thirty-seven and a half feet across the front of the second floor. Sewing machines, "trick" disappearing ironing boards, and sewing tables have been installed in this room to make the practice of needlecraft a pleasure.

At the north end of the second floor is a room which is somewhat separated from the other rooms on this floor. Although this room, which is the same size as the other class rooms, has been fitted with ordinary desks, it will be used largely for classes in drawing and music.

The second floor also contains three class rooms. Each of them faces the front of the building and is twenty-four and a half by thirty and a third feet in size.

The basement, which is particularly light on account of the cement floor and the white plaster walls, contains the toilet rooms and locker rooms for the boys and girls. They are divided by the furnace rooms. Four hundred steel lockers are being installed.

Plenty of Light

Two broad fire escapes lead to the ground from the rear of the second floor. Doors opening from the main corridor lead to them across an aisle in the roof. Each class room has two entrances and both the first and second story corridors are well supplied with fire fighting appliances.

Each class room has a maximum number of windows. Over each door also is a large transom for ventilating purposes. All windows are fitted with screens so that they may be opened freely.

The playground, which is extremely spacious, contains a number of fine large pepper trees. It also contains a large quantity of dust—deep dust, about a foot thick. With the assistance of the fire department an attempt is being made to lay this dry, filmy soil. A high, wooden fence already bounds the rear of the playground.

Malaria may be cured by a newly discovered plant in India that is served in the form of a tea or infusion and does not have the bitter taste of quinine.

Salvation Army Drive

The Salvation Army was brought to the attention of the club by F. C. Chamberlain of Los Angeles, who called attention to its approaching annual drive to raise $5,000 to help the destitute.

"There is no organization in the world that came out of the great war with a better record than the Salvation Army," asserted Mr. Chamberlain. "In every country in the world wherever the Salvation Army has been aiding men and women, no man and no woman has ever pleaded in vain for assistance."

The demand for charity is more urgent now than ever before, according to Mr. Chamberlain. He attributes this fact fact to general unrest. He remarked that the Salvation Army has never had so many applications for assistance before.

Venison steaks were served as the main item on the bill-of-fare. These were supplied by Dr. T. C. Young and Lon Baird, both of whom were called upon to give an account of the recent hunting trip during which they killed six large bucks. They both reported that capturing a full grown deer is a man sized job.

Besides those already mention, the following were present at the luncheon: A. N. Fairchild, Henry Kuehn, Dr. R. W. Sherred, P. J. Hayselden, Tom Furst, C. W. Taylor, W. T. Hart, R. F. Adams, E. O. GEORGE T. SMITH TO OPEN AGENCY

Glendale Auto Dealer Issues Invitation to Burbank Salesroom Tonight

With a receiving line composed of the latest models of Willys-Knight and Overland automobiles, George T. Smith will hold a reception at the formal opening of his Burbank agency from 7 o'clock this evening until midnight. The Burbank sales rooms are at 215-217 East San Fernando boulevard, and their opening will mark the first branching out of Mr. Smith's Glendale agency.

The opening of Mr. Smith's agency in Burbank comes as the result of a steady and successful business as Willys-Knight and Overland dealer at his Glendale location, 228 South Brand. Finding the demand for the Willys-Knight and Overland growing throughout the San Fernando valley, Mr. Smith determined to give prospective owners in Burbank the chance to see and have demonstrated these two lines of cars without leaving their own city.

The public is invited to the reception to be held this evening in the Burbank show rooms. Music is to be provided and souvenirs will be presented to the kiddies, while the older heads examine the different models of Willys-Knight and Overland cars which will be on display.

NOTED INVENTOR NOW IN PASADENA

Owns Five Cars and Three of Them Willys-Knights, Says G. T. Smith

"Many Glendale motorists don't know that Charles Y. Knight, the inventor of the sleeve-valve motor, has been making his home in Pasadena for the past several years," says George T. Smith, Willys-Knight dealer at 228 South Brand.

"This man," he continues, "whose invention is used in twenty-six European countries and in five American countries, has the privilege of driving any one of the makes of cars which are powered with his motor, including the Daimler-Night car, made in England, which sells for about $10,000.

"It is a singular fact, however, that out of the five cars which Mr. Knight owns, all powered with his sleeve-valve motor, three are Willys-Knights.

"Mr. Knight explains his preference for the Willys-Knight by the fact that he considers it the best constructed car for all-around use made today, containing his motor.

S. S. BERAN IS HOME FROM TRIP

Glendale Man Made Trip In Stutz to Big Bear; Was Storming, Report

S. S. Beran, 305 South Brand boulevard, known to thousands of Glendale folk as the "meet me face to face" man, recently returned to Glendale from a trip to Big Bear.

Mr. Beran's wife and two children accompanied him on the trip.

Starting from Fresno about 7:15 o'clock the party arrived at Big Bear in time for lunch. The trip of approximately 196 miles was made without trouble of any kind, a Stutz being the car used. The average speed until the party reached the hills was seventy miles an hour, it is reported.

"We didn't let anything pass us on the way," said Mr. Beran, "for we had a dandy start."

The party stayed in Big Bear for several days. Toward the end of their stay a big storm broke. "It was quite a contrast to the weather we had been used to in Glendale," said Mr. Beran. "The chances are that we would be there yet if the weather had cleared up a bit."
